

true. It is futile to assert that our reality is “true”, and that the others are “false”. All are equally true. It depends in which one of them you happen to live.

“What is the evidence for such a fantastic proposition?” I asked Dr Deutsch. “We are driven to it,” he replied, “by our observations of the behaviour of atoms. In particular, there is an experiment in which a very weak beam of light, one photon, a particle of light at a time, is made to pass through two slits. There is a moment when the same photon passes through both slits. In other words this photon is in two different places at the same time.

“The photon experiment shows that the universes interact with each other. They split, but they can merge again. What we hope to prove is the existence of a universe very close to our own; one, for example, in which everything would be the same except that a book on a table would be in a different place.

“The way to do this will be to detect those random branchings that create new universes. The thing has one thing in common with Galileo’s discovery that the Earth moves. The Inquisition said this was nonsense because they couldn’t feel it move. Some people may think the multiple universes theory is also nonsense because they can’t feel their presence. In neither case could one rely on human senses. Sensitive instruments are needed to detect what is really happening.”

Well, well, well. There are a lot of new ideas around in the world of physics... now some scientists are even suggesting that our own universe is a hologram projected from a much greater Universe of higher dimensions –and yet it is completely real, and we live in it. Perhaps it is possible to say that we do indeed dwell within the mind of God. –Editor. ■

MORE UFO SIGHTINGS AND ALIEN ENCOUNTERS IN PUERTO RICO, © BY JORGE MARTÍN, Editor of EVIDENCIA OVNI (Puerto Rico) and FSR Consultant. (Translation from Spanish. G.C.) EVIDENCIA OVNI No 17, (1998)

The South-West of the Island of Puerto Rico (districts of Lajas and Cabo Rojo) experienced a massive wave of UFO sightings and happenings during the years 1987-1992, many of which I have already summarized and given in my earlier translations of Jorge Martín’s work. Here are some further reports, and Jorge Martín feels that the region may be about to experience another such “wave”. G.C.

Ever since the U.S. authorities set up their captive surveillance balloon, known locally as “the Aerostat”, at Olivares, in the Lajas District (see map) - its alleged purpose being to help in controlling the illegal drug traffic, there has been much questioning as to what the real purpose of the Aerostat might be, for certainly its efficacy against the drug problem seems to have been minimal. And from time to time reports have indicated that its purpose is far more likely to be military - and probably related to UFOs. Here are some new reports.

I. THE CASE OF Sr. FELIX POLANCO.

Felix Polanco has described to me a curious experience that he had near the famous “Aerostat” early in March 1998. He had been working on a new road being built from Fajardo to Olivares. He says:

“I had arrived for work at about 5.00 a.m. and was standing by my excavator. It was still dark. I had just got out of my car and got up on the “digger” and switched on the lights, and I saw a little boy (un muchachito) standing in front of it. He had long skinny arms right down below his knees, and very long fingers on his hands - though I can’t say how many. I attempted to move, and found that I couldn’t” And I panicked. And he just walked away, towards the coast. He was a thin, grey little fellow, about 3 1/2 to 4 ft. high, with a pear-shaped head, wide at the top, narrower below, and with a small pointed chin. The amazing thing was that I had driven up with my car lights on, lighting up the whole area, and yet this little chap hadn’t been there, but now suddenly appeared. I couldn’t see what clothing, if any, he had on. He was just grey all over. I didn’t see whether he had any ears. He had no hair either, either on his head or anywhere. It all looked smooth like a grey skin all over. There was no other colour about him - no white or black or any other shade - just grey. I couldn't see his face at all, I could only see him from the side and the back. And at no time did he look straight at me."

“ Aquello era como un muchachito gris, flaquito con la cabeza grande, como una pera...arriba ancha y abajo, en la quijada, finita”, dijo el Sr. Polanco.

I asked Polanco if the little entity had made any sound or given any gesture when the lights of the excavator shone on him. He said no. The being had simply walked off towards the coast.

It is a well known fact that in the Sierra Bermeja Range of mountains, where this happened, there is a colony of wild monkeys, that had originally escaped from a local research establishment. So I asked Polanco whether what he had seen could not have been one of those monkeys, but he replied no in a very firm and certain fashion. He said: "Look - I once worked for a while at the Mayaguez Zoo, and I can tell you what a monkey looks like! I know those monkeys, and I had a bellyfull of them! And I know they mainly walk on all fours, and they have a long tail and have fur, lots of fur. And what I saw was not walking on all fours but all the time walking erect and upright, on two legs, like a human being. And at no point did it stoop or bend over. And it had no fur! That was no monkey!"

Badly shaken, Polanco went to the works office, at Las Palmas. The other workers there, seeing him, asked why on earth he was so nervy? So he described what he had seen. And the others said that such happenings were very frequent in that region and that lots of people claimed to have seen "extraterrestrials" and UFOs there.

Polanco continued: "Just at that moment, some of the men shouted 'Look! What's that! - What's that thing, up there?' and pointed to the sky. And we all looked, and saw something like a great big red light flying on a West-East course. Suddenly it turned, and then turned once more and headed off towards the Cabo Rojo lighthouse and vanished. As I said, it was round, and very bright, as though full of red light, and high in the sky - of the apparent size, say, of a basket-ball. One of the men suggested that it was a UFO, coming to pick up the "little grey chap" that I'd seen - but of course... who knows? I can't really say that what I saw looked like a craft - it was just a great big red ball of light, that's all".

Polanco's final words were: "Look! There's something going on here, and they don't want to tell us what it is! The U.S. Government ought to tell us what's happening!"

II. MYSTERIOUS PRESENCES OVER THE AEROSTAT BASE.

While we were there at Las Palmas checking the case of Felix Polanco, I had a chat with Jaime Padilla, owner of a local cafe-bar, and he told me about an incredible spectacle that had been seen by him and a number of local residents not long ago. Padilla said that one night, back in 1994, while they were all looking in the direction of the radar-equipped "Aerostat" early on morning, when the men were just getting ready for work, they saw a big bright light like a star coming from the direction of La Parguera and suddenly halting right above the Aerostat. He said: "That 'star' shone a brilliant beam of light down on the Aerostat, and kept the beam fixed upon it. I was astounded. I called to my wife to come and see it too. And then that beam of light from the star began to go back up to it. The 'star' was still there stationary in the sky over the Aerostat."

When we questioned him further, Padilla emphasised that the beam of light was "compact", "like a tube of light from a searchlight on the 'star' or "UFO". And he was emphatic that this light did not disperse, but remained homogenous, and solely directed on to the surface of the Aerostat. He also said that when the beam of light was withdrawn up into the UFO it was retracted gradually, until it merged again with it. Normal light certainly does not behave in this fashion - behaving as though it were solid! He continued: "That 'star' or 'UFO' remained stationary up there until dawn came, and then it went.... disappeared. During all of that time the Aerostat remained quiet and normal up there, with no sound from it, or anything. There was just that vivid beam of light coming down onto

Fig. 3. Artistic recreation of the creature, according to Polanco.

it. I imagine that many, many people will have seen that! My nephews were down at the beach early that morning, and they too saw it. No doubt lots of people did!"

III. A GIGANTIC FLYING TRIANGLE OVER THE AEROSTAT SITE.

Among the many eyewitnesses of this was a Sr. David Acosta. (He, by the way, had also been on of those who, during the night of December 28, 1988, had seen a gigantic triangular UFO which apparently trapped and captured two military jet fighters of the U.S. - apparently U.S. Navy F-14 Tomcats.)

Regarding his sighting of the huge triangle over the Aerostat, it had been earlier than that. It had been around about December 1997, and it was during the night, Acosta, whose house is right in front of the Aerostat site, told me as follows:

"It was about 8.30 pm. There was one single object - and it was immense, triangular, with a round light in the centre underneath. And at the back it had a sort of prolongation - something long and rectangular - like the shape of a manta ray as folk call it, in the sea. It was a rear part, narrower than the main part itself. Shaped, then, like a manta ray, or like an arrow - something like that. And it had this big round light in the centre underneath, and two white flashing lights at the tips of the two wings. It came from the direction of La Parguera and went westwards over the Sierra Bermeja Range. It gave out a faint hum, like the humming of bees. That was all that we could see or hear.

"But when it got to here, it halted, just above the Aerostat. And it remained there a couple of minutes or so, giving me time enough to go and get my camera, and I took two photos of it, but they didn't come out, so the people at the lab. told me." [So they told him! But how does he know that two excellent photos weren't made and confiscated on Government orders? G.C.]

I said to Acosta that surely the staff in the Aerostat buildings must have seen this gigantic object above the place, and Acosta agreed of course that it was unthinkable for the Air Force personnel and technicians there not to have perceived it.

Referring to the big central light beneath the triangular craft, Acosta said it looked as though it might have been the size of a big truck wheel - about 3 ft. in diameter.

If, then, Acosta and the other eyewitnesses were at a distance of 1 kilometre from the Aerostat Base, then our readers can imagine for themselves what the real size of the huge triangular object may have been! None of the eyewitnesses could think of any explanation as to how anything so huge and obviously so heavy could hang stationary in the air and not fall to the ground!

Acosta continued: "My wife also saw it, but she stayed in our jeep. I got out and took the photos. But - as I have said - they didn't come out. The camera was one of those panoramic ones, in a cardboard carton, disposable.... It was all I had to hand at the time. I said at the time. 'We'll see what comes out! But nothing did!'

We asked Acosta whether any military aircraft or helicopters put in an appearance there while all that was going on? "No", he replied. "Nothing appeared".

Then I asked him: "Tell me, then, what do you think that thing was that you all saw - was it a UFO, or was it some kind of secret prototype aircraft of the U.S.A.?"

He replied: "I think it was an unidentified object, a space-ship. I don't believe it was a prototype of the American Government, because it looked so strange and weird, you know. I can't deny the possibility of a prototype. But I am more inclined to think it was from outside (extraterrestrial) than that it was from here on Earth."

FINAL COMMENTS.

All these fresh incidents and situations seem to herald a repeat of the intense Wave in the SW part of Puerto Rico in the years 1987 to 1992 - most specially in these same regions of Lajas and Cabo Rojo and mainly centred on Lake Cartagena and the Sierra Bermeja Range and the whole coastal strip. The big triangular "manta ray" craft, as David Acosta termed it, is similar to others seen over the same region in the years from 1988 to 1990, and the sighting of a UFO projecting a beam of light on to the "radar Aerostat" is only one among many similar incidents observed by numerous residents of the region, all serious and honest folk.

Fig. 7. Map showing the positions of Polanco, Acosta and Padilla at the time of their sightings and encounters.

Señor Felix Polanco also impressed me as a very serious and honest person as he gave me his statement about the alleged "alien entity of Grey type".

Certain it is that something very important is going on here in the south-western portion of our Island of Puerto Rico - something that deserves to be studied seriously and objectively.

In our next issue we shall give still more reports on the current rash of UFO incidents in the South-West. Don't miss it! ■

(Translation from Spanish. G.C.) EVIDENCIA OVNI No. 17 (1998)

(Extract from Jorge Martín's book LA CONSPIRACIÓN CHUPACABRAS (The Chupacabras Conspiracy))

In recent years, in Puerto Rico, we had had not only many of the well-known so-called "chupacabra" type of encounters but also, throughout the entire Island, a mass of sightings and meetings with a whole vast gamut of different other creatures of strange and unwonted appearances of which I give a few below.

I. THE CASE OF OSWALDO CLAUDIO.

A mechanic by profession, Sr. Claudio told me that at 12.50 a.m. in the early hours of December 23, 1995, he was washing his car when he got an unexpected visitor.

He lives in the Municipality of Guánica, an area that has already had "chupacabra" cases. Having finished the car, he went to the back of the house to turn off his water-tap. As he was doing this, something, - which he at first thought to be his wife - came up behind him and put its hands around his stomach and fondled him.

Claudio promptly told his wife as he thought, "stop it. Leave me alone!" But seeing that she paid no notice, he swung round to speak to her and to his horror saw that what he had taken for his wife was "an enormous simian creature about seven or eight feet high!" (Claudio himself is 6ft and the creature was quite a lot taller than he). "The thing was upright, standing there on two legs, with arms longer than the arms of normal humans, and covered with thick black hair."

He also said "that thing" had big eyes with a reddish glow.

Panicking, he gave the creature a push and ran, shouting for help, but as he struggled to get away the creature gave him some nasty scratches on his abdomen with its claws.

Terrified, Claudio jumped over the fence into the garden of his neighbour, José Hernández who, hearing his cries, arrived just in time to see the creature fleeing away to the property behind Claudio's house.

Badly scared and traumatized, Claudio went to the local Yanco Hospital to be treated for his wounds and for shock. And a local newspaper published a report on it, saying it was a "chupacabra", though Claudio said that it wasn't certain. He said that there was nothing about the creature - except its glowing eyes - that resembled a "chupacabra" and that certainly it had no wings and did not fly. (And he said that the journalist who wrote the article had not even consulted him.)

CREATURES FROM OTHER PLANES OF EXISTENCE OR OTHER TIMES?

In the USA, Brad Steiger suggests, in his book Monsters Among Us, that the many species of hairy things of this sort in such cases may be from other dimensions - which might well explain the abnormal features of such cases.

Other folk, meanwhile, see it all as echoes of ancient mythologies - the Garudas of India, the Griffins, the Harpies, etc.

In the case of Puerto Rico the Island seems particularly

Fig. 1. Illustration by Sr. Heriberto Acosta of the big bird seen by him in the Olivares sector in Lajas.

Fig. 2. According to Feldman it was an awful creature of reptilian appearance.

“rich” in reports of “winged humanoids” or other mysterious winged “things”, and while there are many such cases, many of the reports do date back centuries.

In 1991 and 1992 people living near the Cartagena Lake - now so famous - and also near the famous moored U.S. balloon ( the “Aerostat”) reported seeing creatures that seemed intermediate between birds and reptiles, “with wings that looked ‘reptilian’ or ‘batlike’.

In one such case, Sr. Heriberto Acosta, of Olivares, close to the entrance to the “Aerostat”, saw a strange winged creature settle on a metal fence beside the road. It had “fleshy wings, with scales and feathers on a part of its body and a ‘lump’ or ‘crest’ on its head. It had a long neck and a beak containing a row of pointed teeth.” Acosta made a sketch of it, and there is no doubt that the thing did look like a prehistoric pterodactyl. (See sketch in Fig. 1.)

Similar creatures have been seen in the municipal regions of Sabana Grande, and in an isolated mountainous area between Villalba and Orocovis, in the centre of the Island. Ugly-shaped great birds “like pterodactyls” have also been reported on various occasions from different parts of the Island.

A HOLE IN TIME? THE CASE OF SRA. LUCY SANTIAGO.

This lady, of Fajardo, N.E. coast of Puerto Rico, told me of a very, very strange experience. She was walking down a street with friends, in broad daylight, when she had the sensation that “time was standing still”, or was “going slow around her.” She felt most peculiar and could see her friends talking and moving about, “as in a slow-motion film” and the air around her seemed rarefied.

Then suddenly she heard a loud shriek from the sky above her, and, looking up, she saw that there was “a sort of hole there, through which she glimpsed “the bluest and most beautiful sky that there ever was”. Then, suddenly, out of the hole, came a great winged creature, flying at a normal speed, which let out a similar shriek.

As soon as this creature had vanished, everything suddenly returned to normal and she and her friends reverted to “their normal time or speed.”

Some time later she learned that the creature she had seen was similar to a prehistoric pterodactyl.

She wondered whether this experience of hers had been a manifestation of a “dimensional portal” or a “door in time” through which the creature would have come from a remote past into the present.

In her view, nothing else could have explained what she had seen and why the sky seen by her through the “hole” was of such an intense and vivid blue. Is she maybe right in her surmise?

“DIMENSIONAL WINDOWS”.

As a matter of fact, an interesting theory was evolved by the French astrophysicist Claude Pöher of the Centre for Space Studies at Toulouse. [And at one time well known as the French scientist who was officially studying the UFO phenomenon, but apparently chiefly concerned in maintaining the official “cover-up”! G.C.]

Some years ago he published the results of a study in which he compared the frequency of UFO sightings, and sightings of such creatures as we are discussing here, with the periods of geomagnetic fluctuations of our Planet, and with surprising results, he found that the number of encounters with strange creatures reached its

We make it clear here that in no way are he - or we - attempting thereby to say that the geomagnetic disturbances are caused by UFOs or that the UFOs are themselves merely geomagnetic phenomena, or that the effects of geomagnetic disturbances on the human brain create hallucinations for us. We are merely saying that, according to Poher, such geomagnetic disturbances could somehow open up "dimensional windows" or "dimensional doors" through which these objects and these creatures could penetrate into "our reality".

Poher also postulated that maybe the UFOs and the mysterious creatures sighted during those periods could be visible to human eyes during geomagnetic storms because magnetism could activate certain of our cerebral zones, causing us to see things that normally would be beyond the reach of human perception and beyond our sight, just as when we see something reflected in a mirror we can see it in function of the angle at which we are observing it.

A good example of this correlation between the apparitions of UFOs plus enigmatic creatures and the periods of geomagnetic disturbances is the intense wave of UFOs and monster sightings that occurred in various parts of the world in 1978 - a period during which there were many strange happenings, such as the receiving of coded or unintelligible messages, the vast quantity of sightings of beings of tall stature and intermediate between bears, gorillas and men; large incredible "birds" with human faces and mysterious aspect, and of humanoid or alien beings as well as creatures like big - and apparently intelligent - black panthers.

An area particularly affected by this type of occurrences during the period of geomagnetic disturbance is the south-west of the USA and, most specifically, the regions occupied by the states of Texas and Arizona.

Let us examine a few examples of this:

HUMANOID CREATURE OF REPTILIAN APPEARANCE.

In February 1997, as a result of the magnetic storm, a spectacular series of UFO activities began, accompanied by strange and unwanted events such as happened on February 6 to Doctor Martin Feldman. He was driving, at night, along Interstate 78, to his house at Big Springs, Texas, when suddenly his headlights fell on a very tall shape beside the road. Even before catching full sight of the being's face, Feldman felt scared, because he could already see that the shape was very strange and enormous, and its body covered with scales.

Immediately, as he passed it, he realized that what he was seeing was no fancy dress or disguise, but that he was confronted by a being of humanoid shape (with head, chest, arms, legs etc.) but clearly of reptilian aspect, with shining protuberant eyes, like frogs' eyes, and a very wide mouth with no lips.

Terrified, Feldman fled at top speed, but he returned there next day, accompanied by the county Commissioner of Police. All that they found was a few very vague footprints at the spot where he had seen the creature. The Commissioner and his assistant both believed his story because they had already had previous reports of that same type of creature in the district.

Some days later, the mystery creature was seen repeatedly by many other people, entering or leaving wooded areas, but all the attempts to catch it were in vain.

Four days later, on February 10, 1997, and very near the same spot, in the rural community situated between the woodland and the A-83 highway, another queer incident occurred.

The Stovall family, residents of the place, experienced the unwanted episode, at about 7.30 in the evening: Lois Stovall was engaged in weaving, in the lounge in front of a big window looking out onto the local primary school, when she became aware of the presence of a brightly lit disc-shaped object which suddenly appeared in the south-western sky, flying very slowly and silently only just above the tops of the trees.

A few instants later, the object started flashing its lights and changing course, heading now straight towards the Stovall family's house.

Lois at once drew the attention of her grandmother, Alice Buckner, who was having a "nap" in the adjoining room. Then they both stepped outside of the house and saw that the thing had now halted, and was hanging stationary over the garden fence and more clearly visible.

The UFO was "capsule-shaped", like a cylinder, with its ends rounded, and it was in a vertical position. But the most extraordinary feature was a wide transparent window, from which was coming an intense oscillating glow - red and blue - like the colour of flames.

The window was crossed by strong dark bars behind which could be seen the plump figure of a humanoid-like shape, about 3 1/2 ft high, seemingly clad in a very ample one-piece garment looking as though it was inflated, full of gas, and with rings round the articulations of the arms and legs.

At the level of the face, the clothing had a transparent opening, but there was not sufficient light to be able to see what there was inside it.

The disturbing confrontation lasted several minutes that seemed interminable to the two women, until finally the object rose up and departed. What however they did not know was that the neighbour, Mrs. Dessie Turner, as she was brushing her teeth, also had spotted the UFO, and went out to see what was going on. Catching sight of the craft, and the entity, she at once telephoned to the Commissioner of Police.

When a police patrol arrived at the house, the UFO had already gone, but Dessie reported to him everything that she had seen and made detailed sketches of the UFO and of the figure that she had seen inside it. Later, when she knew that the Stovalls had seen the UFO, they compared their statements and their drawings, and they were the same.

METALLIC "SPIDER" AND HUMANOIDS.

Another extraordinary incident - one of many that happened in that area - occurred on April 12 in one of the suburbs of Tucson, Arizona.

At about 3.30 in the afternoon, two girls, Andrea Kerlin, aged 13, and Bridgitt O'Connor, 11, decided to take a short cut on their way home by crossing a piece of wasteland and, when coming out of some dense bushes, at a distance of some 300 ft. or so from the Sensor Motorway, they saw a metallic shaped object like a drum, with many "metallic legs", giving it somewhat the appearance of a "mechanical spider", moving along for a space and then suddenly taking to the air and flying over a depression in the ground and then touching down and then rising up again once more - all in total silence and with an astounding precision.

Before they could recover from the shock of that initial experience, the two girls next heard a noise, and looking towards the area whence it came, they saw that, emerging from the dense-thicket at a spot near where the "metallic spider", had been, were a number of figures of human aspect, and between 5 ft and 6ft tall, with pinkish almond-shaped eyes, short, fine light-coloured hair, and blue and light creamy-coffee-coloured one-piece garments and high boots.

These humanoids seemed not to be aware of the presence of the two girls, or at any rate did not heed them. And behind them there also came five more humanoids all dressed in the same manner, but without hair, and of a smaller size (about 3 1/2 feet high).

In a matter of seconds all these figures had vanished in the direction of a desert area. The episode might well seem to have been just a bit of fantasy, were it not for the fact that one of the protagonists, Audrey Kerlin, along with her sister, had seen a disc-shaped UFO just a few days before and had reported the matter to the Police and to the local TV channel.

During the following nights a large number of UFOs of all shapes and colours appeared over many towns in Texas and Arizona, one of them being observed through a telescope by the astronomer Harold Edgerton, who described it as "like a flying saucer with an incandescent sphere inside it."

Meanwhile, great black "phantom panthers", with eyes emitting a reddish glow, appeared at Albuquerque, New Mexico, killing farm animals (and leaving no tracks on the ground even though it was soft and muddy) and then vanishing mysteriously.

A UFO AND AN "ABERRANT" ALIEN!

On the other hand, the incident experienced by the physicist James Minton in the middle of March 1978 in the town of Mesa, in the State of Arizona, USA, is another example of the weird situation prevailing during those days.

Minton was in his bedroom, reading, at about 2.00 a.m. when suddenly he heard a loud high-frequency hum incredible aspect.

In a matter of seconds, the physicist James Minton found himself face to face with a luminous being clad in brilliantly glowing greenish garb, with a broad belt or something similar, and tight-fitting high boots (see illustration in Fig. 6.)

The American scientist was struck by the thought of how similar the figure's green colour seemed to be a hologram.

On the chest of the dazzling figure Minton managed to perceive something like an emblem, and things like glowing tentacles on its head, and three to four fingers on each hand. In its hands the being was holding what seemed to Minton to be a measuring instrument with which he was apparently exploring the ground - or maybe exploring Minton himself.

Era una figura fantástica, luminosa... y le salían 4 "tentáculos luminosos" de su cabeza.

Fig. 6. It was a fantastic luminous figure, with 4 luminous "tentacles" coming out of its head.

coming from outside. Stepping out of the house, he felt a chill shiver run through his body for there, right in front of him, hanging in the air, at a low height and very close to him, was a disc-shaped object surrounded by a violet-coloured phosphorescence.

The initial fear that he had felt changed to a strange fascination which he himself describes as "almost hypnosis" and which impelled him to watch everything with the greatest interest.

A few moments later, something began to take shape at a short distance from the UFO. Diffuse to begin with, it started to grow denser, more solid, until it had taken the shape and form of an average-sized human, but of

After carrying out a series of activities - not specified - on the terrain of the farm, but without paying any attention to James Minton, the humanoid vanished in the cloud or aura surrounding the UFO, which then rose up and disappeared into the night. Without James Minton having perceived it, 30 minutes had elapsed!

Is Claude Poher maybe on the right track when he suggests a link between geomagnetic disturbances and the appearances of UFOs and of incredible beings? In view of all that I have described above it may very well be that such is the case! ■
