

A Subud Bibliography

By Matthew Clark

COPYRIGHT 2003, 2004, 2005 July 15, 2005 version

Welcome Brothers, Sisters, Booklovers and Fellow Bibliophiles to “A Subud Bibliography”, my labor of love (or rampant purification if you ask my wife)--In either case, the first step in my dream to one day see a comprehensive library or literary collection of Subud and Subud-related writings accessible to members and scholars everywhere.

I have been an avid reader and book-collector since childhood. (My mother drove a bookmobile and used to bring home armloads of discarded books for us to read). When my father passed away in 1995, I was fortunate to inherit part of his esoteric book collection...and his great love of Subud books. That's when the seed was planted...the idea of gathering under one roof everything written about Bapak and Subud and by Subud members. It has grown slowly since then until, with the advent of the Internet, it became possible to begin systematically collecting much of what has been written about Subud and by its members.

This is certainly a work in process, far from finished; in fact, never to be finished as long as Subud continues. It is more than a list...it is a living history of Subud, beginning with Rofe's first article in October 1951 in an obscure journal (discovered by divine inspiration in a sub-basement of the New York Public Library) and continuing through all the great (and some not-so-great) Subud-related books and articles of the past half century.

Please help me continue the work-- Tell me what is missing. Contact me if you wish to trade copies or even donate or sell your collection. Help me with the next steps towards creating a permanent Subud collection open for access. Not a dusty old archive, but a living Subud library! Email me with questions or just to talk. This is fun, this literary archaeology, and I'm happy to share it with anyone who feels to join in the sharing.

Many thanks to Bapak and his family, to my family (Ibrohim, Roana, Sofie, Kenneth, Fatijah), to all who have graciously helped (Harlinah, Melinda, Rosalyn, Richmond, Emmanuel), and to God Almighty for all His blessings.
