"I only know that I know nothing" : A wise proposition ? : "The universe is vast and full of beauty and wonderment. We can only come to know a very small part of it during our earthly lives. How sad to think that we should never have the chance of knowing more". (Lucia).

Ought we not to measure out Immortality in centuries and aeons, but from the standpoint of an eternal present, the forever instant ? :

"Immortality and nothing short of it will satisfy me". (...).

"Let us rather think of it from the point of view of Eternity and realize that it is always now. At this moment I am in Eternity. I always was, and I always shall be, but the "was" and the "shall be" are swallowed up in the fact that "I am" ". (Lucia).

349#.-

"I am that changelessness that lies at the heart of change". (Lucia). Does it refer to our spiritual hard core, the esoteric "I Am" ? (Question 271).

350#.-

Cannot -nor must not- we do more than to do our best ? : "When things go ill with us, we can at least do our duty, and leave the rest to God". (...). "We are called upon to do the very best we can according to our lights, and leave the issue in His hands". (Lucia).

351#.-

A person may react in many alternating ways to a concrete event. It is not so important that which happens to us, as how we do decide to respond to inner as well as external stimuli. Are our mental and emotional attitudes in the face of life, more than our outward deeds, the very crux of the moral substance of ourselves, by which we might be judged ?.

352#.-

The mysterious Question 86 , never clearly answered -as far as we know- by the amanuensis of empyrean Revelation. In crude words: Have I myself, proud John Smith , existed aeons ago as an inert stone, then in the form of one imposing tree, farther on inside the majestic body of a worm ? : "We see how the law of evolution has operated in the material world, and this leads us to suppose that our souls must have been evolved in a similar manner. How could they be evolved at that early stage, unless through physical bodies inferior to those we now possess ?." (Lucia).

353#.-

God no doubt invented man, but why the hell ? . (Question 22). To add brand-new and different things to His Being ? . To complex, diversify, complement, in short to complete Himself, if possible ? . "We came from the Infinite, to the Infinite we must return, and lose ourselves and become as we were before. Surely this cannot be, there must be some reason for it all. "To enrich the Logos" , Annie Besant says. How can the Infinite be enriched ?". (...). "Each one of us is part of the universal harmony, and has to reflect a particular quality of the Divine, and that here is faith. We have to become centres, to limit the life of the whole, that it may flow, through us, to others. The Infinite Life and Love is everywhere in the Universe, but it must find a centre through which to manifest its force, even as electricity is everywhere, but to be of use to us it must be centralized in an electric battery". (...). "We can none of us realize in ourselves the whole of God, but each must reflect a part of the Divine Goodness. Though we are not the Infinite, yet we can reflect the Infinite, and each one of us is an individual thought in the Mind of God". (...). "All manifest differently. All are individual rays of the One Light which they reflect". (Lucia).

What does remain, in eternal and blissful endurance, and what does will fade away, by its lack of divine values ? (Questions 134, 169) . :
"Nothing we have ever really known or felt of good can utterly die. It may pass from our thoughts, become dormant, but will awaken to life again someday, if not here, at any rate, there". (...). "Nothing of good that we have ever really known or felt can die: it may to all appearances seem dead, but one day it will live again. It will burn the brighter for its seeming death, for, added to the old strength, 54 there will be the fruits of experience gained during the intervening time". (...). "That which possesses the essence of reality must be eternal and indestructible. No evil is neither eternal nor indestructible, and therefore it cannot possess the essence of reality". (...). "Everything we have seen, known, thought, felt or dreamed of good, or beautiful, or brave, whether it be in the outer world or in our own hearts, has its Source in the Infinite, Eternal Good, and is of the nature of things real and deathless". (...). "Surely we shall find them again, all our loved ones, in the Infinite Heart of God". (...). "Life is the Reality, and death the shadow. Nothing is lost". (...). "Nothing of good that has been can ever be lost". (Lucia).

What are the key differences among intellectual culture (academic scholarship from university studies, reading of scientific and literary books, cultivation of aesthetic appraisal of arts and the like), and cosmic wisdom (living knowledge of omniversal Reality, natural laws and God-related principles)?.

356.-

Culture is not important for the success in the after-death world, but des-egocentristal attitudes, tireless repeat modern transmitters of spiritual revelation. Can an empathetic illiterate on heavenly lands advance much more speedily than one eminent but rather selfish high school professor, a thinker student of thousands of books, author of a lot of engaging monographs and owner of his potent and extremely trained mind power ? . Is intellectual dexterity "per se" somewhat useless in the personal evolutive career throughout ethereal surroundings ? .

357.-

Most discarnate entities chat about their wonderful energetic bodies, but never describe them in detail. What is their exact internal structure, set of ethereal organs, physiologic functioning, shape (anthropomorphic ?) , general aspect without clothes, solidity, hardness and surface texture by touch ? . Have they any sort of sexual devices ? . Is their particular "matter" composed, too, by atoms, similar to the ones of our physicochemist substance, but, in regard to peripheral electronic cloud, with diverse number of electrons, circulatory speed and distance from the central nucleus ? . (Question 29). Kindly enumerate the main differences between a physical and an astral body. Thanks.

358.-

Electrons revolve environing atomic nucleus, and planets orbit the fiery heavenly body. Contactees assure that the Earth's leading light moves itself surrounding Sirius, our "Central Sun", and Sirius, in turn, with all its subordinate cohort of stars, planets and satellites, proceeds encircling its own Super-Central Sun (the ruling star for many lower Central Suns), and so on and on. On the other hand "The Urantia Book" teaches that physical universe is an aggregate of hierarchically organized astronomical associations, of growing complexity and authority, each system rotating around another starry arrangement of higher rank and perfection. Is the observable cosmos a vast ensemble of sidereal clusters of bodies orbiting each other, following an ascending -and endless- hierarchical scale, the inferior gravitating round the superior ? . (Questions 34, 65-F, 125).

359.-

A rightful answer to Question 137 ? : "There are others (planets of our solar system) which are not visible to you of earth for they are those which have progressed in their etherealization beyond the material, and have become ethereal. They may be seen (only) by those who live on planets of like substance. They are not spiritual, but 55 between the material and the spiritual estate. Their inhabitants are cognisant of the other planets of which earth is one". (G.Vale Owen).

360.-

Is our planet surrounded by a not well-known fourthdimensional area, differentiated from the classic concentric spheres of more and more tenuous and refined ethereal substance which encircle Earth ?; (Question 307): "These of which I speak are true planets of themselves (Question 359). But there are other ethereal planets, so to say it. One of these encompasses earth. For it is of the engrossened ether of which this ethereal planet is composed that earth is suffused. This is not merely a belt of ether solely for service of earth. It has its own continents and oceans and peoples. Most of these have lived on earth in bygone ages, and some have never been earth-dwellers, never having reached material manifestation in body of flesh and blood." (...). "This ethereal planet of which I speak is not it (the Astral Plane). Those human-kind who have come to be there are old denizens as we have been told, and their residence there is uncertain as to its future duration. They are a kind of byproduct of humanity of earth in long ages past". (...). "It has not relation to the (earth astral) spheres one, two, three, as I have spoken of them in their degree by numbers. It is another order of creation, and a very strange one, It lies away off the highway of our goings, so that I know little of detail concerning it". (...). "It account for some erratic events which perplexed us much until this new factor was brought to our knowledge. And then we understood". (G.Vale Owen). (Question 307).

361.-

Is solid matter but a tangible condensation of vibrational energy from spiritual -and by the way conscious- force-fields ? (Question 314): "Spirit impinges upon ether dynamically from the outside, that is, from that realm which is superior, both in powers as in degree of sublimity as to its basic substance. It energizes ether, which, in its turn, acts on and refines those particles which, with itself, make up the substance matter. But this action is not automatic ; it is wilful. Where will is there also is implied personality. It is individuals, expressing their personality, who give character to the ether, and the consequence is faithfully carried on into matter". (G.Vale Owen).

Is physical universe but a corporeal coagulation of intentional energies, engendered by other-dimensional personalities ? (Questions 314, 317, 361): "The Universe is not a universe in itself. It is the outer expression of an inner manifestation of a still deeper cycle of development behind which there are those Lords of Creation who by their wilful energizing guide the great fleet of sun-systems in their constellations....". (G.Vale Owen).

A topic in contactee lore is the rather cold suns expel certain vibrations that in themselves are not hot luminous energy, but become what we know as heat and light only when interact with planetary atmospheres. Correct ?; (Questions 25, 26, 182, 312, 313). : "... the powers which permeate the spaces about the planets and their suns, and which become what you call light by friction with the denser atmosphere enveloping them". (G.Vale Owen).

364.-

From a cosmic perspective, are inexistent anthropocentric predicaments as "superior" and "inferior"?: "There are no higher and lower, no greater or lesser in the world's sense of these words. For as concerning the relation between an archangel and a newly-arrived spirit there is always present the potential factor. That young spirit is potentially not an archangel alone, but a Prince and a Virtue and a Power beyond the archangelic degree". (G.Vale Owen).

56

The inexorable trend of phenomenal multiplicity is to arrive at a supreme divine Unity. But is the scheme of things, elsewhere, divided into a double current of universal developments?: "The course of development shall take a twofold line of direction. That direction shall be first outward, from unity into diversity of expression, as we have already explained. But also along with this line of movement shall go its twin, which is, that progress shall take the direction from the spiritual ever towards the material. It is like two runners running their course side by side. The one is named "From Unity into Diversity", and the other is named "From Spirit into Matter". These two must keep pace together. Neither must be allowed to outstrip the other; for they run not to win except they win the outward goal together". (G.Vale Owen).

Does the universal evolution of every entity follow a non-linear developping course in the fashion of a spiral?. Is the unfolding path towards divine perfection of any creature not one ascending straight line, but a spiral way becoming, in the long term, an ever expanding average growth, but always through a mixed pattern of rises, falls, and again higher rises?. What is the reason for such a tortuous Jacob ladder?. (Question 232).

367.-

According to revelatory oracles, law and order unfaiingly rule throughout omniversal kingdoms, in a very firm, rigorous and implacable fashion. Is such a vast array of omnipresent control and discipline always self-imposed, as a logic result of the voluntary adaptation of personalities to natural laws and God's will?. Is that overwhelming display of orderly rank, hierarchy and authority never based on autocratic power nor selfish dominion, but solely on love, since "Love was fashioned for the Universe, and the whole Universe is both lovable and of Love". "For Love has within its bosom all the virtues blended"?: "Now orderly arrangement is found also here in the heavenly spheres; but that is based not so much on more power or less power, but on that which behind all power, and that is Love". (G.Vale Owen).

368.-

What kind of ultracosmic entity was "The Word", that mysterious God-related (and non-personal ?) agency who collaborated in the making of material universe?. What is his nature and position in the whole ranking of divine actors?: "He came, at that time, as God His Word made manifest. You know that the Word it was Who, when worlds were in the making, was constituted the Medium by Whom the energy of God's Life became modified and condensed into that star-milk out of which was churned plastic matter, and of this the worlds were modelled. The Word was the Agent of Creation. The Father thought through the Word, and His thought, in its passage, through the Word, took form of matter". (G.Vale Owen). "The Word went far abroad, but with Him went God. For God was the Life of the Word, and, through the Word, God's Life passed onward into Form". (Question 370).

369.-

Which exactly is the "I Am", that metacosmogonic, inapprehensible theological figure?.

Does reign above the absolute summit of Reality a matchless "Something", loftier even than God? : "Being was, and from the heart of Being came forth God". (...). "So from Being came forth God, and from God came the Word, and from the Word was the Christ of God ordained to Kingship of the Worlds for their salvation". (...). "God thought, and from His Mind the Word became".
(Question 368). (G.Vale Owen). (Question 326).

Are all things of Nature simply natural? : "There is no such thing as supernatural condition anywhere in the universe. All that is transcendent, beautiful and perfect is natural and according to the "Law of Love". Anything other than that is sub-natural". (Godfré Ray King: "Unveiled Mysteries").

What is energy? : "All energy has the inherent quality of perfection within it, and rushes to serve its Creator. Perfection is the only predestination there is".
(Godfré Ray King).

Is a sort of cosmic feed-back an omnipresent quality of the scheme of things? : "Every moment, each individual is receiving into his mind and body the pure and perfect life of God. Each moment, he is also giving quality of some kind to the pure, universal substance of God. This quality he alone creates and generates and he must receive it back into his mind and body, for all things in the universe move in circles, and thus, return unto their source." (Godfré Ray King).
(Questions 232 and 366).

"Love", the most interesting word, also in the microcosm? : "Love is harmony and without it in the beginning of a form, that form could not come into existence at all. Love is the cohesive power of the universe and without it, a universe could not be. In your scientific world, love expresses itself as the attractive force between the electrons. It is the directive intelligence which wills them into form, the power which keeps them whirling around a central core, and the breath within the core that draws them to it. The same thing is true of each vortex of force everywhere in creation. A central core and the electrons whirling around it form an atom. This core of love is to the atom what the magnetic pole is to the earth and what the spine is to the human body. Without a central core or heart center, there is only the unformed, universal Light, the electrons filling infinity and whirling around the Great Central Sun".
(Godfré Ray King). (Question 10).

Does consciousness modify, mold and/or empower raw universal energy? : "Remember you deal with a force of some kind every instant of eternity, and you are its qualifier at all times".
(Godfré Ray King).

Why truth is stranger than fiction? : "Then, you will understand why truth is far stranger and more wonderful than fiction, for even the most extraordinary fiction is but the record of a truth that is somewhere in the universe".
(Godfré Ray King). (Question 8).

Again the mysterious motives that compelled God to engender his vast and multifarious omniverse, scrutinized in questions 6, 22, 208 and 353: "Creation in form exists that God may have something upon which to pour out love and so express in action". (Godfré Ray King).

58

Earth: a future etheric planet? : "We are approaching another such period (a cataclysmic cleansing process every 2,500 years), and this time the release of the great cosmic love, wisdom, and energy, the mighty rays of Light, will not only quicken the minds of the race but the atomic structure of earth as well, making it more "luminous" in our solar system". (Godfré Ray King). (Questions 23, 137, 359).

Do you know how is and function the divine Trinity? : "...the three activities of the Godhead, Father, Son and Holy Spirit, acting through man as Love, Wisdom and Power". (...). "In that day, the "Father-Mother-Son" will be "One" in the heart of man. The Son is forever the door, the way unto God". (Godfré Ray King).

380a.-

Is it "impossibèe" an impossible adjective? : "The human side of anyone, even at its best, knows so little of the tremendous wonders existing everywhere around us all the time, and the infinite possibilities within every plane of life that all things are possible, and the closer we live in love and recognition of our divinity, the more of these wonders throughout Creation will be revealed in our individual lives". (Godfré Ray King). (QUESTION 376). (QUESTIONS 346, 347).

Are logic and reincarnation indissolubly connected each other?: "The law of re-embodiment is the activity in human growth that gives the individual an opportunity to re-establish a balance, in conditions that he has consciously caused to be thrown out of balance. It is but one activity of the law of compensation - cause and effect - or what might be called an automatic balancing process, governing all forces everywhere in the universe". (Godfré Ray King). (QUESTIONS 162, 381).

A conclusive description of karmic process? : "If a man has injured a woman in one life, he is certain to be reincarnated in a feminine form and pass through a similar experience, until he realizes and experiences that which he has caused another to endure. This is the only way by which one is compelled, or rather compels himself, to experience both the cause and effect of everything which he generates in the world. The individual can create and experience whatsoever he will in his own world; but if he choose to do that which causes others to experience discord, then he compels himself to go through a similar condition, until he understands what the effect of his own creation is upon the rest of the life of the universe." (Godfré Ray King). (QUESTIONS 15, 83, 84, 87, 90, 117, 255, 276).

Are wordless but strong emotional cravings much more potent than mere vocalized prayers? : "Feeling is the actual God-Energy released". (...). "One uses an affirmation, mantram or prayer because he desires something made manifest. Right desire is the deepest form of prayer. Thus, by the use of affirmation, the student raises his outer-self into the full acceptance of its truth, and generates the feeling by which it becomes a thing manifest. In this deep acceptance comes the manifestation for through concentration, the spoken word begins to cause instantaneous activity". (Godfré Ray King). (Question 308). (QUESTION 328).

Are electrons the primordial units that conform the diverse kinds of "matters", primary bricks of all categories of substance pertaining to many different planes of existence? : "The electron is pure spirit or "Light" of God. It remains forever uncontaminated and perfect. It is eternally self-sustained, indestructible, self-luminous and intelligent. If it were not, it could not and would not obey "The Law", the directing activity of love. It is immortal, ever-pure, intelligent Light-Energy, and the only real, true substance out of which everything in the universe is made, the eternally perfect "Life-Essence" of God. Interstellar space is filled with this pure "Light-Essence". It is not dark in chaos, as has been the ignorant, limited concept of puny, human intellects. This great sea of Universal Light that exists everywhere throughout Infinity is constantly being drawn into form, and given a quality of one kind or another, according to the way the electrons are held around a central point or core, by love. The number of electrons which combine with each other, in a specific atom, is the result of, and determined, by conscious thought. The rate at which they whirl around the central core is the result of, and determined by, feeling. The intensity of the drawing and whirling motion within the central core is the "Breath of God" and therefore, the most concentrated activity of divine love. Speaking in scientific terms, it would be called centripetal force. These are the determining factors which make the quality of an atom. Thus, you will see the atom is an entity, a living, breathing thing- created or brought into existence by the Breath, the Love of God, through the will of self-conscious intelligence. In this way, "the Word is made flesh". The machinery that self-conscious intelligence uses to accomplish this manifestation of its being is thought and feeling. Destructive thought and discordant feeling so re-arrange the ratio and rate of speed of the electrons within the atom, that the duration of the Breath of God within the pole is changed. The duration of the Breath is decreed by the will of the consciousness using that particular kind of atom. If that conscious directing will is withdrawn, the electrons lose their polarity and fly apart seeking their way back intelligently mind you to the Great Central Sun, re-polarizing themselves. There, they receive love only, the Breath of God is never-ending, and Order, the First Law, is eternally maintained". (Godfré Ray King). (Questions 29, 32, 106, 214, 300, 301, 361, 362).

Individual consciousness : We do face the foremost parameter among all intentional figures created by God? : "Through various activities in the mental and physical world, form can be disintegrated or temporarily demolished, but the consciousness of the individual is eternal; and can control all substance everywhere in manifestation, when the God Life within (our higher or divine self) is acknowledged as the Knower, Giver and Doer of all good in creation. (Godfré Ray King). (Questions 80, 238, 325).

Is always self-created, in all circumstances, the dimensional environment and life conditions of every personal consciousness? : "If the sense consciousness thinks itself something separate from God -perfection-, then that condition is established unto it, for what the sense consciousness thinks into its world, the world returns to it. When one lets an idea of imperfection or separation from God occupy his attention, and therefore his mind, a condition corresponding to that begins to express itself in his body and world". "This causes the person to feel himself an entity apart from his Source". (Godfré Ray King). (Questions 9, 238).

Is not there anything free in life? Or the profitable pleasure of giving: "You cannot receive what has not been earned". (...). "They can only receive that for which an effort is made". (...). "We cannot receive without giving; and we cannot give without receiving. Thus, the great balance of life is maintained". (Godfré Ray King). (Questions 184, 236, 315).

388.-

Is it to conform and submit an exquisite art we must learn before being allowed to command? : "The right to command, which is dominion, is only permanently retained by those who have first learned to obey because he, who has learned obedience to the "Law of the One", becomes a Being of Cause only, and that Cause is love. Thus, he in reality becomes "The Law of the One" through the quality of similarity". (...). "Whoever makes himself willingly obedient unto the "Law of Love", has perfection in his mind and world permanently maintained. Unto him and him alone does all authority and mastery belong. He only has the right to rule, because he has first learned to obey. When he has obtained obedience from the atomic structure within his own mind and body, all atomic structure outside of his mind and body will obey him also". (Godfré Ray King).

Do we may treasure love as the task most resembling the Godhead we have at hand in our deficient three-dimensional planet? : "All the universe obeys the behest of love. Whatsoever I desire manifest itself, when I command in love". (...). "All other realms of "Life and Light" move and create according to the fundamental principle upon which all perfection rests. That principle is love". (...). "Love is not an activity of the mind, but is the "Pure and Luminous Essence" which creates mind". (...). "Love is perfection manifest". (...). "It asks nothing for itself, because it is eternally self-creating, being the Heartbeat of the "Supreme". "Love owns all, and is only concerned with setting the Plan of Perfection into action in all". (...). "Love alone is the basis of harmony and the right use of all life energy. In human experience, this grows into a desire to give, and give, and give of all the individual's peace and harmony unto the rest of creation". (Godfré Ray King).

Power of Man = Power of God. Is it a valid equation? Has God delegated unto his creatures almost all his infinite capabilities and authority, provided, of course, they deserve them through effort and self-gained evolutive advancement, playing the divine "sport" of love, and adapting themselves to natural laws? Do we exist - fortunately - in a wonderfully decentralized omniverse? : "God's intent for every one of His children is abundance of every good and perfect thing. He created perfection and endowed His children with exactly the same power. They can create and maintain perfection also, and express God-dominion over the earth and all that is therein". (...). "The only reason all do not manifest dominion, is because they do not use their Divine Authority that with which each individual is endowed and by which he is intended to govern his world. Thus, they are not obeying the Law of Love by pouring out peace and blessing to all creation". (Godfré Ray King). (QUESTIONS 211, 390, 391).

391.-

A bold follow-up of the Question 390: "You are The Creator localized, to design and create perfection in your world and place in the universe". (Godfré Ray King).

392.-

We can create, and even with nearly the same efficiency than God himself. (Questions 390 and 391). Well, but at what risks and costs? : "Everywhere throughout the universe, whenever the power to create is given to a being, the responsibility of creating is always co-existent with the power. All creation is by self-conscious effort, and if the individual upon whom this great gift of life has been bestowed, refuses to take his responsibility and do his duty, his experiences in life will prod him with misery, until he does". (Godfré Ray King).

Should not we comment at all our most beloved desires, if we would like them to come true ? : "Under no circumstances discuss either your desire, or the fact that you are visualizing (in order to materialize it into our real, everyday world), with anyone whatsoever. This is imperative. Do not talk to yourself about it out loud, or even in a whisper, for you should realize that the greater the accumulation of energy generated by your visualization, contemplation, and feeling the reality of your picture, the quicker it will come into your outer experiences. Thousands of desires, ambitions, or ideals would have manifested into the outer experience of individuals, if they had not discussed them with friends or acquaintances." (Godfré Ray King). 61

394#.-

On Questions 72 and 174 : "All that does not or will not come into the action of order, balance and peace, must of necessity pass into some other school-room of the universe, and work out its own understanding of this Law of Love, in some other way than is to be the expression of the future life upon our earth". (Godfré Ray King).

395#.-

Are akashic records such prodigious devices that chronicle even what could have been but was not ? : "Everything which had, or ever could take place in all Eternity, might be made visible on this screen (a cosmic one, upon which living pictures in all dimensions could be portrayed), if the Directing Intelligence so desired". (Godfré Ray King). (Questions 318, 327).

396#.-

Gold : solely the richest filthy lucre, or rather a spiritual energizer for Earth laggards ? : "Gold was a common commodity in this age (a former civilization that rose to its apex seventy thousands years ago), as in all "Golden Ages", because its natural emanation is a purifying, balancing and vitalizing energy or force. It is placed within the earth by the Lords of Creation". (...). "The outer mind or intellectual knowledge of humanity holds within it little -very little- understanding on the real purpose for which gold exists on this planet. It grows within the earth like a plant, and through it there is constantly pouring a purifying, vitalizing and balancing current of energy into the very ground we walk upon, as well as into the growth of Nature and the atmosphere we breathe. Gold is placed upon this planet for a variety of uses. The far greater activity and purpose of it, within and upon the earth, is the release of its own inherent quality and energy to purify, vitalize and balance the atomic structure of the world". (...). "Gold is one of the most important ways by which the energy from our sun is supplied to the interior of the earth, and a balance of activities maintained. As a conveyor of this energy, it acts as a transformer to pass the sun's force into the physical substance of our world, as well as to the life evolving upon it. The energy within gold is really the radiant, electronic force from the sun, acting in a lower octave. Gold is sometimes called a precipitated sun-ray. As the energy within gold is of an extremely high vibratory rate, it can only act upon the finer and more subtle expression of life, through absorption". (...). "In these ages, the gold is never hoarded but instead, is widely distributed into the use of the mass who, absorbing its purifying energy, are themselves raised into greater perfection". (...). "Because of the gold deposits in all mountain ranges, one finds health and vigor in life upon the mountains that he cannot find at any other place on the earth surface". (...). "The more advanced of these people produced much gold by precipitation direct from the Universal". (...). "The jewels were also precipitated, direct from the One Eternal Substance". "If all this (stored) gold were to be released into the outer activity of the world, it would compel sudden re-adjustment in every phase of human experience". (Godfré Ray King). (Questions 131, 132, 244).

397*.-

Is wealth a test to its owners, plus a means for helping the spiritual advancement of others ? : "No one in this world ever accumulated a great amount of wealth without the assistance and radiation of some Ascended Master. There are occasions in which individuals can be used as a focus of great wealth for a specific purpose, and at such times greatly added power is radiated to them, for through it they can receive personal assistance. Such an experience is a test and opportunity to expand their Light." (...). "It is we who really govern the wealth of the world, and use it but as a test of the soul strength of the individual. It is always a trust given to those who should be strong enough to use it only constructively, but few, very few really pass that test under the temptation existing in the world at large today." "If we choose, we can raise the humblest of God's children who have sufficient preparation into wealth, power and prominence, if, by so doing, help can be given to many others, through such accomplishment". (Godfré Ray King). (Questions 89, 302).

398*.-

Etheric revelators often refer to a certain "Central Sun", but never bother to explain its precise nature and functions in cosmological and/or spiritual economy. What exactly is, in an unveiled definition, this remarkable Central Sun ? : "The Inca's devotion to his Source was very great for he knew and consciously acknowledged the power of the "Great Central Sun". This true understanding was taught to the Incan people and, because they knew to what the Great Central Sun referred, used the Sun as the symbol of the Godhead. They had real, inner understanding, and acknowledged the fulness of the power from this Great Central Sun which today we call the "Christ", for it is the Heart of the Christ Activity in the universe". (Godfré Ray King). (Questions 34, 65, 125, 358).

Is our biosphere endowed with a self-purifying mechanism of defence, by means of so called natural disasters, pseudo-accidents and catastrophes as well as supposedly cataclysmic events, in order to get rid of the poisonous vibratory agencies infiltrated into the earth environment by the powerful and highly polluting thought-forms generated century after century by the gross mental and emotional activities of millions of selfish and animalistic individuals, lacking of any spiritual attitudes, due to their perpetual broadcast of dangerous radiations of hatred, lust, evil desires and aggressive feelings ? : "The entire human race has storms of hate, anger, revenge and many other outburst of feelings, and the four elements, which have recorded those qualities, return them to man, through the world of nature, as storms. The people of earth have cataclysms of thought and feeling as resentment against each other, against injustice, against places and things, knowingly and unknowingly sending out the feeling of revenge. The great sea of Universal Substance, upon which these qualities have been recorded, expresses them back to their source, the individual, by means of the four elements, as cataclysms in Nature. Such activities are but Nature's ways of purifying and shaking herself free from the contamination of human, discordant thought and feeling, and returning to her pristine condition of God's purity". (...). "There is a self-generating and self-purifying force within Nature that rises and throws off all that disagrees with the "Law of the One". This force or energy is a pushing activity from within out, and is the One Power expanding. If discord is imposed upon Pure Universal Substance, the electronic energy becomes temporarily dammed up within it. When such accumulated energy reaches a certain pressure, expansion takes place, shattering the discord and limitation". (QUESTIONS 55, 103, 333).

400*.-

Is it a correct definition of the Holy Spirit ? : "The Holy Ghost or Holy Spirit is the feeling side of Life - God - , the activity of Divine Love or the Mother Expression of Deity". (Godfré Ray King). (Question 370)

401#.-

Emotions: are they our available dynamo of mighty energies to accomplish wanted things in life? : "The more intense the feeling within the desire, the more quickly it will be attained". (...). "What you think and feel, you bring into form; where your thought is, there you are, for you are your consciousness; and what you meditate upon, you become". (...). "The feeling activity of life is the most unguarded point of human consciousness. It is the accumulative energy by which thoughts are propelled into the atomic substance, and thus thoughts become things." (...). "Thoughts can never become things, until they are clothed with feeling". (...). "Thoughts and feelings are living, pulsating things". (Godfré Ray King).

Is intense desire a quite powerful device to fulfil our most cherished hopes and aspirations? : "Every human being on this earth can have all the time he wants in which to do this, when his desire to do it is intense enough. The intensity in the desire itself will re-order the world of people, conditions and things so as to provide that time, if he earnestly wish to use it for his upward climb. No person in the world is an exception to that law, for the intense desire to do anything constructive, when it becomes intense enough, is the God-Power that releases the energy necessary to create and express the thing desired". (...). "Desire is the expanding activity of God, through which manifestation is constantly sustained, and is perfection enlarging itself". (Godfré Ray King). (Question 383).

Does a visualized shield of god-like light work as the best protective safeguard against the evil intentional forces from other dimensional realms that roam the universe influencing receptive mortals towards negative thoughts and deeds? : "Picture and feel your body enveloped in a dazzling white Light. The first five minutes while holding this picture, recognize and feel intensely the connection between the outer-self and your Mighty God within, focusing your attention upon the heart center and visualizing it as a golden sun". (Godfré Ray King). "A light shield is an encasement of light which is to envisioned around the physical body as a form of protection against negative light rays. To create such a shield, you must be in harmony with light and love. You must be brotherly in your thinking..... Light is the element of God. Use it wisely and you will never have anything to fear". (Brad Steiger: "Revelation: the Divine Fire"). (Questions 61,189)

404#.-

Why almost all revealed texts are written in a plain and clear literary style, by means of a simple, intelligible but efficacious terminology? : "The material in this book is written in a plain, direct manner with no attempt to conform to artificial literary standards, or outer world authority. This series of books must go forth in a simple modern style which the layman could easily understand". (...). "The Ascended Masters never use involved terminology regardless of any human opinion, for the nearer one comes to Eternal Truth, the more direct and concise is the language in which it is clothed". (Godfré Ray King).

405#.-

Should be all of us but mere subservient operative pieces, toiling consciously to optimize the efficient working of the synergic omniversal Totality? : "I express my willingness to justify each moment I exist in usefulness to universal whole, that the universal whole may also justify my existence". (Brad Steiger). (Question 3).

406#.-

A transmutation of the atomic structure of matter in Nature and beings, into a more Empyrean disposition of electrons and atomic cores, will take place in the XXI Century, until Earth become an etheric planet? : "These energies taken into the aura of an individual, will emit such high-frequency radiations as to raise the molecular structure of the cells to a point whereby the body will then vibrate in the fourth etheric level. So will come the change spoken of by many, imperfectly understood by many, but grasped by some. The transition of matter into a finer, more etherialized matter will take place. You will still be yourselves, you will still function as human beings with all the sense perceptions of human beings. But you will be of a more rarified construction. Transition from physical to fourth etheric substance will take place". (...). "The composition of all matter upon your planet is rapidly reaching a point wherein it will either become a finer etherialized structure or will disintegrate". (...). "This is about 2,025 , after great changes have taken place in the surface of the Earth". (Brad Steiger). (Questions 23, 137, 359, 378).

64

A non-judgemental attitude towards our fellows: a key feature of a few angelic humans? : "I cannot judge another sovereign being, but I can help that being to expand its awareness so it may judge itself". (Brad Steiger). (Question 331).

408#.-

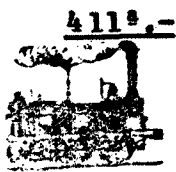

Century after century the very same basic messages have been conveyed to humankind by means of varied techniques of revelatory experience. Why spiritual truth have been channeled in similar underlying terms to different epochs, races and civilizations? : "The significance of revelations being essentially the same is that it is the same God that is revealing these things to man. He has not changed His will, His intention, His conception of what it means to be a man, what it means to be in this world". (Brad Steiger).

409#.-

Is there, of course, a God, the managing director of All, but, too, myriads of very powerful subsidiary gods? Is the known "God" of earthlings but a lesser cosmic executive, far from the Absolute divine summit? : "Is Lord Michael the creator of our planet? No, the Elohim created it. That is in the Bible. Every constellation has a Lord over it. Every solar system has a Lord. Every plane has a Lord. The Elohim work, I believe, directly under the Creator. You might say that they are minor gods. If you want to go one step higher than a Lord, you become a god with a little "g" by creating something new that will be of value to all persons on all planets and all the solar systems throughout all creation". (...). "There are other creations with other gods who have equal stature; but that is a little too much to give to people when they do not even know about life on other planets". (Brad Steiger). (Questions 191, 311).

Over the mystery of the origin and development of primordial monads: "The Creator's name is Sacrana. When Sacrana created you or me or anyone else, He took a part of His own spirit (the Bible says I am in ye; ye are in me) and He set it out as one single, spiritual atom. He said, "Go and know my Universes, and return then unto me". "Each spiritual atom goes the mineral kingdom, the plant kingdom, the animal kingdom and the human kingdom. From then on, you go on up to become a seventh-plane angel, a twelfth-plane angel, seraphim, cherubim, and so forth. Just as you go to school and complete various courses of study". (Brad Steiger). (Questions 85, 86, 352).

411*.-

Here we deal with visualization. Is it the most efficient technique in order that our thoughts and desires become coagulated into physical reality? (Godfré Ray King).
(Questions 346, 361, 362, 395).

65

A real student, and only such a one will get the benefit out of this kind of training, takes the reins into his own hands and determines to discipline and consciously control the human self. He chooses what shall or shall not be in his world and, through the process of picturing within his mind, designs and brings into manifestation a definitely determined plan of life.

"Yes," I replied. "I have a question that has been holding my attention for some time, and it is concerning visualization. What is true visualization and what happens, when one does visualize?"

"True visualization," he answered, "is God's attribute and Power of Sight, acting in the mind of man. When one consciously pictures in his mind a desire he wishes fulfilled, he is using one of the most powerful means of bringing it into his visible, tangible experience. There is much confusion and uncertainty in the minds of many, concerning what actually happens, when one visualizes or makes a mental picture of something he desires. No form ever came into existence, anywhere in the universe, unless some one had consciously held a picture of that form in his thought, for every thought contains a picture of the idea within it. Even an abstract thought has a picture of some kind, or at least a picture that is one's mental concept of it.

Are our evil desires of inflicting harm to others more dangerous to ourselves than to our so-called foes? (Godfré Ray King).
(Questions 163, 399).

If one deliberately takes the life of another human being or determines mentally to take it, he has set a cause into motion that will surely take his own.

"A feeling or desire for the death of another person will do the same thing, for it goes forth to the person, and then begins its return journey to the one who sent it out. Many times, individuals allow resentment against injustice to flash forth, with an intense feeling to rid the world of a certain individual. This is a subtle form of the thought of death, and to the one who sends it out, it must return.

"The second step is to state your plan in words as concisely and clearly as possible. Write this down. Thus, you make a record of your desire in the outer, visible, tangible world. The third step is to close the eyes and see within your mind a mental picture of your desire or plan in its finished, perfect condition and activity.

"Contemplate the fact that your ability to create and see a picture within your own consciousness is God's attribute of sight, acting in you. The activity of seeing and the power to create are attributes of your God Self which you know and feel is within you at all times. God's Life and Power are acting within your consciousness to propel into your outer world, the picture you are seeing and feeling within yourself.

"Keep reminding the intellect that the ability to picture is an attribute of God—the attribute of sight. The power to feel, experience, and associate with the perfected picture is God's power. The substance used in the world without, to make the form in your picture and plan, is God's pure substance. Then you must know, God is the Doer, the Doing, and the Deed of every constructive form and action that ever has been sent forth into the world of manifestation. When you, thus, use all the constructive processes, it is impossible for your plan not to come into your visible world.

"Many, many people bring about their own dissolution, by this very subtle activity of the human self for no one ever escapes this "Immutable Law."

"The number of mankind that pass out through physical violence is infinitesimal compared to the deaths brought about by these subtle activities of thought, feeling, and the spoken word. The human race has been killing itself off for thousands of years in this subtle way, because it will not learn "The Law of Life" and obey It.

God + Love = All Reality?.

Do become "God" and "Love" a pair of marvellous synonymous?.

414^s.- Are individual centers of consciousness true punctual God-projections, the highest category of divine focalizations in the universal ranking of begotten entities ? : "I believe that all created things are conscious, all are conscious of one another and are in relationship with one another in that all are parts of the same great consciousness". (Brad Steiger). (Questions 18, 80, 238, 314, 375, 384).

415^s.- A lot of contemporary mediumnistic revelations augur that in a few decades our globe will undergo an overturn of its axis, followed by a dreadful chain of planetary cataclysms : sinking of coastal lands, weather disturbances, earthquakes, volcanic eruptions, floods and hurricanes, plagues, famines and the like. Does will actually happen about the turn of the year 2,000 the ill-fated tilt of Earth's axis so many times foretold ? : "A series of cataclysmic Earth changes would precede the planet's tilting on its axis. Such a tilt would destroy the Earth as it now exists in its physical sense, but the Space Brothers would take away the Chosen and return them to Earth after the planet had once again crystallized. At that time, the Earth will be totally new in every respect". (Brad Steiger). (Questions 72, 174, 292, 394).

416^s.- Why does prophecy so often fail ? . Is always there a previous conditional restriction, consistent of the intervening acts and omissions dependent on the free will of certain involved people, for the actual fulfillment of a foreshown prediction, at the most hypothetical and probable ? : "Many of the Biblical prophecies were subjunctive and conditional. If you continue to do this, then the Lord will do this". "With God it is always subjunctive". (...). "This may be the reason why the prophecies do not turn out ; because they may not have heard the conditional character of them. Prophecies generally speak a word relevant to their own time for the purpose of bringing people to recognition of their plight and to repentance now. The purpose of prophecy is not just to forestall disaster, but to restore men and women to God and to the kind of covenant of light that God intended for them in the first place, usually through justice and righteousness and peace in the land". (Brad Steiger).

417^s.- Is the individual God-Self not an immutable spark of divinity, but rather one evolutive, growing in perfection entity ? : "The level of consciousness immediately above our own conscious level and may be considered the "god" within each of us, an older, parental, utterly trustworthy spirit that incorporates both the male and the female essence". (...). "It is the High Self, the highest "god" with whom man can deal". (...). "Man's only contact with the Creator can be through connection with the High Self". (...). "The High Self could not interfere, if the middle self was creating thought forms of ill will toward others. The High Self cannot violate the entity's free will, nor can it render assistance until it has been properly asked. In no case the High Self will perpetrate injustice or cause injury". (...). "After death there is a continuation of growth and progression, the low self reincarnating as a middle self in due time, and the middle self eventually progressing to the level of the High Self, becoming the "utterly trustworthy parental spirit". (Brad Steiger). (Questions 65, 204, 209, 211, 262, 342, 349, 391).

Archangelic masters help from aeons ago to improve the material and spiritual conditions of our grieving orb. Well, but by means of highly sophisticated techniques utterly incomprehensible to humans? Does may the benevolent operations of the aiding heavenly beings appear before our ignorance and prejudices as incredible, absurd and even evil? "I personally refer to them as the Secret Chiefs, who could just as easily be called angels, masters, guides, or even gods, who operate from another plane of being to influence mankind's development and to influence it in directions that are not always comprehensible to the people influenced. The overall goals of these beings may be incomprehensible to us, or from a human and very limited point of view, may seem to be evil. Human value judgments really do not apply on these levels." (Brad Steiger). (Questions 171, 172, 207, 221, 222, 237, 259, 280).

The universe as a well-known loving being : "The universe itself is also an immense being which lives, thinks and feels exactly in the same manner as man does, but at a much greater intensity". (Hilarion: "The Nature of Reality"). (Question 3).

420*,-

A galaxy is a sacrificial being ? : "The entire galaxy consists of a single, gigantic entity which has spread itself upon the three-dimensional aetheric matrix in a form of sacrifice, in order to allow myriads of lesser entities and beings to experience reality in a physical form". (Hilarion). (Questions 16, 17, 18, 147, 288, 289).

421*,-

God, a sort of composite being ? : "The nature of the transcendent mind of God is not difficult to grasp. It is constituted by the sum of all the intelligences that exist in creation. In effect, the original and first Creator has allowed His own mind to become fragmented and dispersed within the centers of myriads of apparently separate beings and entities. Thus God, as perceived by man, no longer has a single, unified mentality which is an objective intelligence separate from those He has created. The gift that He has given to each and every one of the numberless beings that have sprung from Him partakes of the very essence of God Himself". (Hilarion).

422*,-

Is the ouija board a very dangerous interdimensional device ? : "The use of the ouija board is dangerous in the extreme. The ouija is not under any form of higher protection or guardianship as is the case with the five methods of obtaining knowledge described in the last chapters. The practice of the ouija was allowed into the world as part of a bargain made with the dark forces who are working for the destruction of humanity, for, in return, these dark forces have agreed not to interfere with the other five methods". (Hilarion).

Are horses and dolphins ensouled by human spirits ? : "The souls which dwell within these animal bodies (horses), however, are not animal souls at all, but are in reality the souls of angels who have volunteered to live a life of service to mankind for a number of reasons". "At the present time literally all dolphins, porpoises and related species of highly intelligent aquatic mammals are vehicles for the expression of human souls". (Hilarion). (Question 284).

Was suffering designed to counterbalance egotism as well as earthbound tendencies and thus to foster spiritualism in life ? :

"Many of these souls have agreed to submit to a greater burden of physical pain and discomfort than they would normally be called upon to face, in order to help the process of turning the attention away from the physical level. The pain act as a repelling characteristic of the earth-centered attitudes, and in order to escape the discomfort, the soul turns to a much higher level of being". (Hilarion).
(Questions 81, 330).

425#.-

How was created the cosmic ensemble of all coexistent levels of reality ? : "On the second day of the creation, God divided the "waters which were under the firmament from the waters which were above the firmament". This refers to the creation of the three-dimensional aetheric matrix by an act of will on the part of the Father. The aether of the physical universe constitutes the "waters...under the firmament" which were separated from other "waters" or universes parallel with the physical one as seen from four dimensions". (Hilarion).
(Questions 4, 65, 114, 218, 223, 246, 324).

426#.-

Were the gas and oil fields carried from Venus into the bowels of the Earth ? : "One of these projects involved the deposits of oil and natural gas which mankind has been able to utilize for energy, building materials and fertilizer. With the help of advanced soul groups from outside the solar system, a large part of the atmosphere of Venus was transferred to the earth and was allowed to condense and settle on the surface of the earth. Much of this atmosphere, rich in gaseous hydrocarbons, was distributed in the lands now surrounding the State of Israel so that in the final part of the Tribulation the nations of the world would fight amongst each other for ownership of the oil deposits". (Hilarion).

427#.-

Celestial lords, in a queer display of surreal ethics, revealed to American scientific community, on purpose, the hazardous secrets of atomic weapons, invent that in its opportune time (question 415) will end in the planetary holocaust of the third and terminal world war : "Prior to the 1940's, it would not have been possible to achieve a nuclear reaction, because of the inhibiting field which the galactic observers maintained over the areas where such experimentation might have taken place. However, this restraining field was removed during the 1940's so that mankind could develop the atom bomb and subsequently the hydrogen bomb. The reason why man was allowed to have this dreadful engine of destruction was only partly related to the desire to end the Second World War then in progress. The other and far more important reason was to provide man with an ultimate weapon by which he could, during the Tribulation years (question 415), demonstrate to himself in external, physical terms, the nature of the rage and hatred that burned in his breast". (Hilarion).
(Questions 178, 418, 426).

428#.-

Alien visitors, in the course of scores of contact claims, reiterate to human race their hard admonition against the dangers of nuclear warfare. Is it plainly justified such repetitive warnings, the persistent atomic reprimand ? : "One of the reasons why the vehicles of visitors from other parts of this galaxy are so commonly sighted on the earth at the present, is the concern which these visitors have that mankind will, through its ignorance of the nature of nuclear explosion, actually cause an irreparable rent or rupture in the aetheric matrix of the universe, which could spread like the tear in a cloth to other parts of space.

428#,-

..... The consequence of such an event would be the annihilation of all physical living matter in the galaxy". (Hilarion).
(Questions 264, 265).

429#,-

"Thoughts are things". And evil thoughts do become too harmful things ? : "The imagination of man has also led to great calamities, destruction and death. His ability to picture events and circumstances first in the aetheric substance has created immense and destructive forms in the aether which have persisted for many generations up to the present. These thought-forms, as they are called, do not of themselves spontaneously condense into the physical counterparts, but they are able to promote and foster the kind of circumstance or event which they represent. Thus, where one group of human beings hold in common an intense hatred for another group, a destructive thought-form of great power is created in the aether which inexorably brings about the physical manifestation of that hate in the form of war and strife between the two groups". (Hilarion).

430#,-

Again on visualization: a method for solidifying feelings and desires into tangible reality ? : "Visualization of any object, condition or result immediately sets up the thing visualized in the aetheric structure of space, for the aether responds immediately and precisely to the patterns which thought and visualization project upon it. If the projected image can be held for a fraction of a second in a perfectly stationary condition, the aetheric counter-part of the thought will condense to form atoms and molecules of material substance in exactly the same way as discussed previously in regard to the creation of matter. The same condensation phenomenon will arise, and physical matter can literally be created from thought". (Hilarion).
(Question 411).

Another hint about the rare spiritual performances of gold :
"So long as men were using for their money either gold, silver, or certificates redeemable in one of these two precious metals, the goal of spiritual perfection, represented by gold and silver, was held constantly before the subconscious mind of men. But the gradual abandonment of the precious metal basis for the currency has brought with it a simultaneous abandonment of the goal of perfection in the spiritual sense". (Hilarion). (Question 396).

432#,-

Is the III World War in the making through a premeditated historical process ? : "The details of the cause of this war are still in a state of flux, but in a general way the reason for the strife will be related to the oil deposits which lie under the sands of the Arab countries ringing the State of Israel. These deposits have been placed in this position for the purpose of establishing the "casus belli" for the final holocaust". (Hilarion). (Questions 292, 426, 427).

433#,-

Does light not travel among galaxies through conventional space ? :
"The explanation of the redshift in the light from distant galaxies is similar to that for the redshift in quasar radiation. The light arriving from distant galaxies passes along a chord of the immense hypersphere which constitutes the three-dimensional universe, and thus arrives at an angle against the local region of space. Light cannot travel, in the aether itself, between galaxies. The only way that it can arrive from such distant points is by passing directly across the fourth-dimensional construct along a line which is straight with respect to the four dimensions. The reason why light cannot pass through the ..... aether in the intergalactic regions is simply that the aether in those areas is still contracted and condensed to the state of a proton. This condensed state is not just in discrete packets as it is within galaxies, but rather is a universal state for the aether. In a sense, the inter-galactic aether is "frozen solid" into a hard, compacted, dense material through which no object, radiation or vibration of any kind can pass". (...). "In order for light to pass from one galactic "spot" to another, it has to take a short-cut through the interior of the balloon". (The cosmic hypersphere in the Flatland analogy). (Hilarion). (Questions 138, 164).

A transmutation of the atomic structure of planetary matter, unknown to contemporary science, will occur in the XXI and subsequent Centuries : "The post-Tribulation era will be exactly one thousand years, and all who live upon the earth will know that this is to be the case. At the end of one thousand years, the entire planet and all who live in it will be transmuted into a finer substance called astral matter, and the natural place for the earth will be changed to another realm consisting entirely of this astral matter". (Hilarion). (Questions 23, 137, 359, 378, 406).

Man was a souless entity, by the way a mysterious personal condition, in a primeval stage of his existence : "Once there was no rebirth, for there was no death in the physical sense. All men who had been created from the beginning continued to exist in physical form, and none had ever experienced any of the other realms or regions of creation. In this early phase of man's history, the individual humans did not possess souls in the sense of a continuing, eternal entity. If the early men had relinquished their physical existence, nothing would have remained at any level". (Hilarion). (Question 170).

Old karmic debts must inexorably be paid, even if they have been already forgiven : "The forgiveness cannot excuse any soul from the requirements of the karmic law, to meet and set aside the debts acquired through sinful actions". (Hilarion). (Question 84).

437a.-

The Christ Spirit never take over twice the same individual avatar : "Jesus himself had lived many incarnations upon the earth to achieve His final state of perfection, and a number of the later incarnations were experienced in the role of teacher and bringer of spiritual light. However, the Christ Spirit itself was not with Him in any of these prior incarnations. It is the law that this great part of the Godhead can dwell only once with each soul in physical incarnation". (Hilarion).

438a.-

Is there a unique, symmetrical and ultraprivileged center of the universe of all universes, perhaps an incomprehensible non-spatial enclosure, a magestic "control room" of total Reality, where dwells the Godhead and his closest divine staff ? (Question 65-D).

27: Anger

The nature of anger is not even suspected by humans who feel this emotion. Anger is not a characteristic which is inherent in the human soul as created. It is a form of twisted passion which exists in the aether of space near the earth, due to the presence and basic nature of the planet man calls Mars. The essence of the Martian planet is a giant aetheric thought-form of incredible power and destructive force which has been bottled up, so to say, within the confines of the physical body of the planet.

This thought-form is the remnant in the aether of a previous planet which no longer exists, and which once was located in the region between Mars and Jupiter. That earlier planet was called Jmojer, and it was for a long time the planet of physical incarnation for those among the fallen angels who wished to make restitution in order to regain the bliss they had lost.

That experiment failed. The beings incarnated on Jmojer relentlessly turned back to evil ways and habits, and little in the way of redemption was ever achieved there. This was so despite the fact that many Master souls and entities of both the human and the angel groups volunteered to live, suffer and be destroyed on that planet in order to show its inhabitants the way to perfection.

Finally, it was decided that the experiment on Jmojer would have to be terminated. This was accomplished by causing a large asteroid with a very eccentric orbit to change its path into one of direct collision with the planet. The impact disintegrated both bodies into tiny fragments, which are seen today as the asteroid belt between Mars and Jupiter.

But the great and hideous thought-form of anger, hatred and destruction which the Jmojerians had constructed for themselves over the millennia remained intact. Without a physical planetary counterpart to inhabit, and without beings on its surface from whom to derive renewed vigor, this thought-form represented an extreme danger to other parts of creation, and especially to the civilization on the earth which was itself still at a relatively primitive stage of spiritual evolution. For this reason a decision was taken to bind the thought-form within the Martian body, and to allow it only limited access to the earth at the times of close approach between these planets.

The mental remains of the broken to pieces planet Maldek, and their massive deleterious influence upon the ever controlled and manipulated humankind. (Hilarion). (Question 219).

21: Predestination

The idea of predestination has haunted and confused man ever since he became aware of the pattern of time. Fear has prompted the idea that all facets of existence may be predetermined and fixed in such a way that no choice or action on the part of the individual can avoid the experience intended to take place. This misconception has caused great confusion and anxiety to millions of human beings.

The truth of the matter is that many external circumstances and event-patterns are indeed arranged and "predestined" in a manner of speaking, but that the internal reaction of the individual to such events is entirely free. The response of each human being to the pattern of events impressed upon his life from the outside, is free to such an extent that no psychic gift nor any spirit or entity viewing from a higher plane of being can possibly say with certainty what the response will be. Even the Creator has voluntarily denied Himself the ability to foresee the responses of individual humans to the circumstances in which they are placed.

The distinction between external, predestined events and internal freedom of response can be represented by the following hypothetical case. If a man walking along the street should suddenly be struck by a flowerpot from above which he did not see before the impact, it is clear that he could have done nothing to prevent the external event from affecting his physical body. However his freedom of internal response to that outer event is unlimited. He could ignore the pain and shock, dust himself off and continue as before. Or he could conclude that someone at a window above him had purposely dropped the pot on him, and could attempt to find the culprit and deal with him. On the other hand, he could decide that someone living in the adjacent building had inadvertently placed the pot too close to the window ledge, and he might attempt to replace the broken pot and to replant the flower it contained, to be given back to the original owner. Many other responses could also be selected.

The external events, like the dropping of the flower pot, are pre-arranged to a large extent in order to confront each human being with a choice of internal response. Through the requirement to choose in this way, it is hoped that the individual will learn to choose the right and more spiritual response, and that through such

Have Earth a hollow central kernel teeming with life and adding toll ? . (Hilarion). (Questions 45, 174, 239, 266).

10: The Earth

The nature of the earth has been kept from mankind ever since his inception on the planet. He has not realized the most important fact about this body in space, namely that it is a living being with intelligence and emotion just as he is. If man had known the true nature of this great entity on whose surface he resides, he would not have despoiled her beauty or pillaged her riches in the way that he has done.

The structure of the earth is much different from that conceived by geologists. The earth does not have a liquid or semi-liquid core at its center. Instead, the earth possesses a hollow core which extends from the north pole to the south pole. In this core there are people and animals that have lived there for millennia. The inhabitants of the core are different genetically from humans on the surface of the planet, but they do not differ in any other way.

Many of the animals in the core are the same as on the surface, but additional species exist in the core as well. Even species that have become extinct on the surface are preserved in the center.

Located at the geometric center of the earth's mass is a central sun which is very small compared to the external sun, but which derives its energy in the same way. Both suns consist of a mass of primary points which remain unmasked and which give off vast quantities of energy. The peculiarities of the external layers of these two bodies are such that the general drift of the transverse node positions in the region of the external sun is toward that body, while the general drift of the node locations in the region of the central sun is away from it.

It is due to this gravitational repulsion inherent in the central sun that the great mass of the earth does not collapse inwardly upon itself and eliminate the central core. The repelling gravitational field emitted by the central sun is also responsible for "pushing" the inhabitants of the central core outwardly toward the walls of the core. In effect, they experience a gravitational "attraction" toward the soil beneath their feet exactly analogous to the gravitational field experienced by humans on the surface.

Quasars : their fourth-dimensional implications. (Hilarion). (Question 433).

11: Quasars

The nature of the quasars in galactic space has been a mystery since their recent discovery. They are known to cover large regions of space, and it is appreciated that they are a peculiar anomaly among the phenomena of deep space.

Quasars invariably exhibit what has been called a "redshift". This refers to a lengthening of the wavelengths of emitted radiation which, in the visible region of the spectrum, would be detected as a reddening of the light received.

The reason for the redshift is simply that the quasars are displaced immense distances away from the matrix of three-dimensional space, in the fourth dimension. In effect, the source of the quasar radiation is not "in" space at all.

Because of this displacement in the fourth dimension, the radiation coming from the quasar to the observer in three-dimensional space follows an oblique line through the four-dimensional construct, and impinges against the three-dimensional matrix at that angle. The angular impingement of this radiation results in sympathetic electro-magnetic vibrations of the aether travelling "in" the space of three-dimensions, but the wavelength of the sympathetic vibration which is excited is longer than that originally emitted due to the trigonometric relationship of the directions involved.

The nature of gravity is something which has confounded the imagination of men for aeons. Even in Atlantean times the true explanation of this phenomenon was not understood. Yet the source of the gravitational effect is not difficult to grasp when one realizes that it is merely an aetheric phenomenon of a particular kind.

The greatest error that man has made in his attempt to understand gravity is his assumption that gravity is a pull exerted by one body or another. Exactly the reverse is the case. Gravity is in fact a push which impells two bodies together with a force inversely proportional to the distance separating them and directly proportional to the product of their masses.

The way in which the push comes about will be described in two phases. To begin with, it can be imagined that two bodies are floating within a hollow sphere and that the bodies are separated from each other. The interior surface of the sphere is assumed to give off light uniformly over its area. If it is further assumed that the bodies respond to the light radiation by being pushed away from the source of the light, it will quickly be understood that the result will be the coming together of these two bodies.

If there were only a single body floating in the middle of the hollow sphere, the light radiation would push equally against all sides and equilibrium would result. The net force on the body would be nil. But when the second body is inserted into the hollow sphere, the newly added body will block out some of the light which previously had fallen on the original body. In effect, the second will cast its shadow upon the first. This will cause an imbalance in the forces exerted against the first body along a line joining the two bodies, because the light falling against the first body from the point diametrically opposite the position of the second body will not be equally compensated by light from the other direction. The second body will be interfering with the light which normally would compensate.

The result is that the first body will drift toward the second under the influence of the unbalanced forces. Exactly the same imbalance will arise in the second body and it too will drift toward the first. If there were beings living on either body they would be tempted to assume that the two bodies were exerting an attraction on each other, particularly if the beings were not aware of the light.

The nature of light is not difficult to grasp. It is nothing but a vibratory wave disturbance in the aether. The aether is capable of three basic vibrational states.

The first involves movement of the aetheric substance in the direction of wave propagation. This mode is identical to the propagation of sound in the atmosphere.

The second vibrational state involves movement in a direction perpendicular to the direction of wave propagation. This can be compared to vibrations in a mass of jelly when the point giving off the vibratory motion moves back and forth in a direction perpendicular to the wave direction.

The third mode is a vibration in which the medium itself moves in a direction transverse to the line of propagation. This can be compared to the movement undergone by a sheet or film when one edge is caused to move back and forth in the direction perpendicular to the film. It is somewhat like the motion of shaking out a rug, where an edge is grasped and moved rapidly up and down to cause ripples moving along the rug.

These three vibrational modes correspond to different specific phenomena observed in the real world.

The first vibrational mode, involving condensation and rarefaction of the aether along the line of propagation, is experienced primarily as the longer wavelengths of electro-magnetic radiation. These are the waves which are given off by radio and T.V. transmitting antennae.

The second mode of aetheric vibration is experienced as visible and near-visible light.

The third mode of vibration, in which the aetheric matrix itself supports vibrational waves, which cause the aether to move in the fourth dimension, is experienced as a gravitational field.

The third mode of aetheric vibration would correspond to a ripple wave passing along the skin of Flatland and causing the skin to move perpendicular to its own plane. It could be compared to the ripples on the surface of a millpond which expand out from where a stone is dropped into the water.

The sound mystery of gravity force Finally solved ?
(Hilarion) . (Question 36) .

1: Space

every phenomenon observed by man in the real world is accounted for by one or more of the properties of the aetheric matrix. It is the purpose of this chapter to show how the aether is distributed and to discuss some of the properties which allow it to give rise to material manifestation.

Space is not three-dimensional only. The space which man conceives is but part of the totality of creation. It exists, within a larger space, with a greater number of dimensions. The best analogy that can be made to allow a partial glimpse of the distribution of the aether is that which has been called Flatland. It is possible to imagine a two-dimensional space similar to a thin film or sheet, having extent in two mutually perpendicular directions but having virtually no extent in the third dimension, which would correspond to the thickness. It can also be conceived that this space would support beings within its surface, who would also be only two-dimensional. Such beings could conceive only of objects which in turn were two-dimensional because they would not have any experience of objects with a larger number of dimensions. If we could communicate with a Flatlander, we would not be able to describe, in terms he could appreciate, what a cube or a chair were like.

Let us now suppose that we wish to give the Flatlander a complete universe in his two dimensions. We could extend the flat film which defines his space indefinitely in all directions, but this would not be the neatest way to go about it because there would always remain the question of the free edges and what happens beyond these edges. However, the problem can be solved in another way. The universe of Flatland could be made as the surface of a very large balloon or ball so that space would be of limited area but without a limit in the sense of a free edge. In such a universe the Flatlander could travel as far as he wished in any direction without coming to the 'edge' of his space. But it would not be necessary to provide an infinite amount of the material of his space in order to give him that freedom. The only drawback would be the confusion on his part when, after travelling a certain distance in what he thinks is a straight line, he would end up back where he started from. Even this difficulty can be minimized by making the balloon of his space so large that he is not likely to be able to complete one circuit around its periphery. Another advantage of giving the spatial balloon a very large diameter is that the local space in the Flatlander's immediate area would be virtually flat and would not exhibit any significant curvature. This would mean that the geometric relationships in a localized region of the Flatland universe would remain true in the sense of plane geometry. For example, a triangle

The nature of space has long been a question which has defied man's attempts to comprehend it. In the past, men have tried to explain their space in geometric terms, but this has left much unaccounted for and has led to considerable error. The main assumption which needs to be made before space can be understood is that there is something which defines its position with respect to other higher realities. If this fact can be accepted, then all of the various fields, effects, motions and phenomena observed in the real world will fall into place in a single unified scheme.

The substance which defines the space of the real world is a tenuous material with properties of elasticity. Its basic nature allows it to stretch, to contract, to flow as a current of water does, and to carry vibrational wave disturbances. This substance permeates all of the three-dimensional matrix. There is no location in the physical universe which does not contain the substance, in one of its many forms.

In the 19th century men speculated that there was a material of this kind extending through all of space, because they could not see how light could be transmitted if not on a medium of some kind. They named this hypothetical medium the aether, and in this book the same designation will be maintained. In essence, the scientists of that century were correct in their assumption, but they did not extend their reasoning far enough to grasp the full significance of this miraculous substance. If they had done so, they would have realized finally that all matter of every form is composed of the aether in one of its states of condensation or expansion, and that set up in the curved Flatland universe would have its three angles sum to almost exactly 180° , with the difference being too small to detect with the Flatlander's instruments. Of course this would give him the impression that his space was not curved, because he could reason that a significant curvature in his space would falsify the triangular relationship.

The skin of the Flatland universe corresponds to the aether of the real universe. The aether is curved upon itself to define a spherical shape as pictured from four dimensions, and this hypersphere has an immense diameter, far beyond the possibility of any physical being to travel even a portion of its girth in the normal lifespan.

The similarities between the Flatland analogy and the real universe will be used throughout this book where appropriate, to exemplify the various phenomena and characteristics under discussion.

rings of high vibration surrounding the contracted proton, the aether is in such an agitated state that small openings or breaches in its texture spontaneously arise. Each "hole" in the aether, becomes a spinning vortex, through which the aetheric substance spins, out into the fourth dimension. The aether which passes outwardly through the spinning hole, arcs over through the fourth dimension, and is drawn back into the aetheric matrix, at the proton itself.

The constant flow of aether into the proton, from the fourth dimension, provides sufficient material for the proton to remain in its contracted or condensed state, because the impingement of light against the proton tends to promote the re-expansion of the proton back to the more rarified condition which the rest of the aether maintains. This in effect causes a bleeding away of the substance of the proton into the surrounding aether which is compensated by the entry of spilled-out aether from the fourth dimension.

We have said that the aether is an elastic medium. The arc of aether, through the fourth dimension, from the spinning electron vortex, to the condensed proton, attempts to contract, with a force inversely proportional to the square of the length of the arc. This contraction tends to draw the electron and the proton together, and it is this force which men have called the electric field.

In the past the electric field has been thought to be a natural phenomenon within three-dimensional space, but its true source was not recognized. With the addition of the concept of a fourth dimension the explanation of this effect-at-a-distance becomes clear.

What we have described so far is a simple atom of Hydrogen, made up of a single proton in the nucleus and a single electron at the distance of the first electron ring. Other elements are also created in the identical manner. The determining factor for the nature of the element created is the particular wave-form of the transverse vibration in the midst of which the creation takes place.

There are five primary wave-forms for the third mode or transverse vibration. These are responsible in various combinations for the creation of all the known elements, including those which are radioactive. The question of radioactivity will be dealt with at a subsequent point in this book.

The nature of matter is more subtle than that of light. Matter is also an aetheric phenomenon, but it is not a wave motion in the same sense.

In the vastness of space are located "points of primary vibration", which are capable of setting the aether into the third mode of vibration, namely that in which the spatial matrix undergoes motion in the fourth dimension. In effect, these primary points themselves vibrate in a direction transverse to the aether, and this transverse vibration is communicated to the aetheric substance to give rise to the transverse motion.

In the Flatland analogy, the primary points could be compared to contacts on a stretched film or sheet, the contact locations being vibrated across the sheet in the direction perpendicular to its main extent. This would cause a series of expanding ripple waves progressing outwardly from each point, much like the waves travelling outwardly on a millpond surface from the point where a stone is dropped into the water.

The primary points in the real world thus give rise to travelling transverse wave patterns which cross each other and interact to form a number of stationary waves that include locations of low vibration called nodes, and locations of high vibration called anti-nodes. The standing-wave pattern is similar to that experienced by a stretched string fixed at both ends and struck or plucked at an intermediate point.

When the node locations of a number of such patterns are all coincident at a single location, the aether becomes very still at that location with respect to its transverse vibrational mode. If the aether becomes completely stationary for even a fraction of a second at that location, it immediately contracts or condenses into a denser and more solid state. It is this small bit of condensed or contracted aether which has been called the proton.

Surrounding the condensed packet of aether are concentric rings of very high transverse vibration, and it is in these concentric rings that the various electrons take form. The error which scientists have made in regard to the electron is to assume that the electron is something, whereas in fact it is nothing, or even less than nothing. The explanation of this paradox is a simple one. At the concentric same direction when forced to travel through the aether as in a beam. When the beam is aimed across the direction of flow of a magnetic aether current, the spin of each electron causes a build-up of aetheric substance on one side of the electron, and a decrease in aetheric density on the opposite side. This results in a push against the electron toward the less-dense region, tending to change its direction of motion. It is not unlike the reason why a curved "spin-ball" thrown by a pitcher is able to deviate from the original line along which it is thrown.

Protons also have a spin, but it is in the opposite sense to that of an electron. It is for this reason that the proton or positively charged beam is deflected in the opposite direction from the deflection of electrons. The deflections are of different degrees, not because of the different "mass" of the two kinds of particles, but rather because of the fact that the proton has some mass in the generally understood sense, while the electron has no mass whatever since it is a location of an opening in the aetheric matrix.

The nature of magnetism has been a puzzle to man ever since its discovery. It can be seen from the preceding discussion that it is a simple and easily grasped phenomenon which is directly tied to the nature of the primordial stuff of reality: the aether.

The nature of nuclear energy is easily understood. We have explained earlier that a proton is merely a packet of aether in a condensed state which is maintained in equilibrium by the constant feeding in of aether from the fourth dimension, to compensate for the bleeding away of its condensed aetheric substance due to bombardment by normal aetheric vibration. When the vibration becomes too great to be compensated by the aether influx from the fourth dimension, the proton loses more than it gains, and a point is reached where it can no longer maintain the condensed state. The result is the sudden re-expansion of the remainder of the proton up to the more rarified state of the surrounding aether. It is exactly the same as the sudden conversion to steam of a small droplet of water when it is rapidly heated to its boiling point and beyond.

The instantaneous re-expansion of the proton gives out a burst of aetheric vibration which represents the energy which was "stored" in the condensed proton packet in accordance with Einstein's formula.

The nature of magnetism is no more difficult to understand than the topics already discussed. Magnetism is nothing but a current, in the aether, flowing from one point to another. The flow of the aether arises through several mechanisms. One involves natural magnets like lodestones or the earth itself, of which the nature is such as to promote the flowing current in the aetheric substance. Another source of the movement is the flow of electrons through a conductor.

The lodestone effect is too complex to be dealt with here, but the basis of the electron's ability to create a flow in the aether is a simple one to grasp. We have already said that an electron is nothing but a spinning vortex, in the aetheric substance, through which the aether itself spills out, into the fourth dimension. The nature of these spinning holes is such that they always tend to spin in the same direction. There are some exceptions but they are not important in terms of the effect under discussion. When electrons are forced to move through a conductor as an electric current, their direction of spin is always the same with respect to the electrical current flow. This causes the aether itself to begin to form a larger vortex of circular movement around the conductor carrying the electrical current. It is this rotary movement of the aether which is detected as the magnetic field around a current-carrying conductor.

When such a conductor is wrapped around a central core in the manner of an electrical coil, the promotion of the larger aetheric vortex around each one of the turns combines in the center to cause the aether to move in a straight line along the center axis of the coil. This is the reason why a magnetic field of considerable strength can be erected by the use of electricity.

Another effect of magnetic fields is that of altering the direction of movement of a charged particle such as a free electron or free proton. Protons are not normally free in nature, but the combination of several protons known as an alpha-particle can be projected as a beam in certain kinds of apparatus. Other devices are capable of projecting a beam of pure electrons.

The reason why a magnetic field tends to alter the direction of motion of the beamed electrons has to do, of course, with the spin of the electrons. We have said that virtually all electrons spin in the

At the beginning of the Tribulation there will be a time of peace, relatively speaking. Skirmishes, limited incursions and internal strife within countries will continue to be in evidence just as before the Tribulation, but no fear of a generalized Third World War will materialize during its first three and one-half years. This is promised in the Revelations at the description of the First Horseman of the Apocalypse.

After the three and one-half years of comparative peace on the earth, the final devastating war will begin, in which eventually all of the major nations of the world will become involved. The beginning of the war will be at the mid-point of the Tribulation, and it will last uninterrupted until the final day, which is spoken of in the Revelations as the "great day of God Almighty".

The details of the cause of this war are still in a state of flux, but in a general way the reason for the strife will be related to the oil deposits which lie under the sands of the Arab countries ringing the State of Israel. These deposits have been placed in this position for the purpose of establishing the casus belli for the final holocaust, as has already been stated.

In the midst of the three and one-half years of war centered in the Middle-East, a number of natural catastrophes will be arranged to afflict the earth. One of the most frightening of these catastrophes will be the discovery that a large asteroid has deviated from its expected course and will collide with the earth at a location in the Pacific Ocean. The impact from this asteroid will be felt throughout the earth as a tremendous shock-wave, initiating earthquake and volcanic activity on a scale unparalleled in the written histories of man. In addition, the asteroid will disrupt the natural flow of water through the Pacific and other oceans of the world, and will cause the loss of a third of the sea-life of the earth. Part of the destruction of this life will be due to chemicals in the asteroid which pollute a large portion of the salt water on the planet's surface. Finally, the impact of the asteroid will cause an immense tidal wave to expand out in all directions from the point of impact and this destructive wall of water will carry away almost all of the major cities which ring the Pacific Ocean, with immense loss of life and destruction of property.

This asteroid will not have been a mere accident in the mindless mechanics of the universe. The body will have been purposely diverted from its expected orbit in order to collide directly with the earth during the Tribulation period. Many will doubt that such manipulation is possible, but they will be those who doubt all matters of faith and belief, and who have hardened their hearts against a reality beyond that which the physical senses perceive.

But for many men, the knowledge that the mother planet of the race stands in danger of annihilation through impact from another celestial body will awaken a dormant seed of faith, and in desperation millions will turn to religions and beliefs which they have neglected all of their lives. Through this turning toward a higher level of being, many souls will be saved that otherwise might have been lost forever. ANNIHILATION

Although man was permitted to eat the fowl of the air, he was repeatedly told through revelation that the consumption of the great new gift was not to be allowed. But he disregarded the warnings, and the consumption of chickens spread quickly through the earth's population. The delicacy of the meat, of course, is related to its original intended function: to produce eggs.

Because mankind had disregarded the law as handed down through revelation, a genetic imperfection was introduced into all lines of egg-laying hens in such a way as not to interfere with the production of eggs, but so as to render the bird's carcass, when freshly killed, more susceptible to the development of certain harmful strains of bacteria than is ordinarily the case with the carcasses of animals. Hence chicken which has been fried or imperfectly cooked often contains the contamination of Salmonella and other bacteria, which infect those who eat it.

After the Tribulation the chicken will remain, and will continue to be a great source of protein intake for mankind. However, the conditions under which these animal souls are forced to live will be greatly changed, and as a result the quality of the eggs produced will also rise considerably. Where before two eggs were required for Nonetheless the cows and the milk they now provide will be affected in an important way during the Tribulation as a part of the general plan. We have just said that mankind was intended to eat four categories of food represented by the four ancient elements of earth, air, fire and water. None of these categories include the meat of land animals such as the cow, the pig and the lamb. In fact the eating of such animals has been repeatedly condemned by direct revelation to man at various times in his history, and this prohibition continues to be hinted at even today through the various "beef crises" that have occurred in recent years.

If mankind continues to consume the flesh of these animals, a very great crisis will occur in connection with the dairy animals in particular. This will be in the form of a great plague in which virtually every animal of the species on the surface of the earth will perish. However, this event is not yet fixed, since it depends very much on whether mankind, and particularly those in North America, will significantly reduce their consumption of red meat during the remainder of the 1970's. If the beef consumption is reduced in this way, then the animals will live through the Tribulation, although the giant storms towards the end will greatly reduce their numbers. However should the consumption of red meat continue at the present pace or increase, then this gift which God has made to mankind will be snatched away.

Are Tarot cards actually manipulated by otherdimensional specialists to uncover probable future events, these conditioned by human free will ? (Hilarion). (Question 416).

Thus the reason for the success of Tarot-reading is the specific contribution of entities located on a higher plane of being who are able to see the most likely course of future events at any given time, and who are under an obligation to physically manipulate the patterns of the cards as they are turned up in such a way as to symbolize for the card-reader the information that is being sought. Occasionally the information obtained through card-reading turns out to be false. Sometimes the error is due to a misjudgement on the part of the card reader. In other instances, however, it arises because the probabilities of certain future events have shifted in the meaning due to the exercise of human free-will, and due to chance occurrences, so that the events previously seen as most likely have given place to others. The risk of error in card-reading cannot be avoided, because it is essential to allow all human beings a general degree of free choice in their responses to events.

Are sharp and sarcastic tongues diabolically powerful psychical and emotional weapons, that inflict the deepest wounds upon the soul and soma ? (Hilarion).

Cancer results from the invasion by an aetheric agent, not of the physical body or its aetheric counterpart, but rather of the aura itself. This is the reason why those gifted with psychic vision are able to perceive in the aura of the cancer victim a definite shadow or darker area which is situated adjacent to the portion of the physical body where the cancer manifests.

There is a very deep and hidden spiritual reason behind the illness which man knows as cancer. We have said in discussing the basic idea of karma that the result of bringing pain or harm to another in one life must be the endurance of a similar pain or harm in a subsequent part of the soul's physical existence, which may be in the same life or in another. The affliction of cancer is not so much a specific retribution for a specific act which brought pain to another. Instead it is part of the learning process for the soul, and which is intended to prompt the soul to make faster progress in a given area of spiritual assimilation than has been the case up to the time of the affliction.

Let us illustrate by an example. Consider the tendency, which many people today exhibit, to direct sarcastic or critical remarks at other people, and particularly at the spouse and members of the immediate family. Great pain of a psychological nature is inflicted daily by millions of souls who have not learned to chain up their tongues and keep still. It is considered, from a higher level of being, that a certain degree of assimilation and learning must be achieved in this particular lesson before a given soul can escape from the wheel of rebirth and pass on to a higher school of spiritual learning. If a particular soul is judged not to have learned this lesson of sarcasm or criticism up to the point of 50%, i.e. if it has not been at least half-learned as judged by his behavior and attitudes toward others, then permission is given for a cancerous aetheric agent to invade the aura (its natural, desired abode), and from this position to influence the cell-formation and reproduction process in the adjacent part of the physical body in such a way as to give rise to the chaotic cell multiplication which has been called cancer.

However the cancerous agent is allowed to occupy only that part of the aura which is directly adjacent to a part of the physical body which is associated with the lesson that has not been at least 50% learned. In the case of sarcasm and criticism, which are expressed verbally by the expelling of air from the lungs through the larynx, it is usually the lungs which are selected as the site of the illness. Those who smoke cigarettes to excess will to some extent predispose their lungs to this malady, and where the soul who must undergo the problem of cancer is a heavy smoker, it is normally the lungs which are selected. However in the case of those who smoke lightly or not at all, the cancer would typically be allowed to involve the larynx, which utters the harmful words, or the brain, which formulates them in the first place.

Thus it becomes clear why cancer of the lungs is so commonly encountered today. It is not so much because of the smoking per se, but rather because so many people need to learn the lesson related to sarcasm and criticism, of which group a large percentage are habitual or heavy smokers. Indeed, the kind of nervous temperament which normally goes along with a tendency to be sarcastic or critical is precisely that which attracts a person to the habit of smoking.

As another example, consider the affliction known as epilepsy. As has been pointed out by Edgar Cayce, an epileptic condition is almost always a form of retribution for sexual excess in a prior life, and particularly for the forcing of sexual attentions upon another in such a way that harm or distress was caused to that person.

In the cerebral disorientation and loss of controlled function that occur in an epileptic attack can be found that exact analogy, though with a greater involvement of the cerebral apparatus, of the point of climax during sexual union. The transport of sensation which occurs in the sex act is not different in kind but only in degree from that which takes place during an epileptic seizure.

Thus the karmic retribution for the transgression is brought about by way of a similar though (intensified) experience to that of the sex act itself. An additional benefit is derived from the experience of epilepsy however, and this has to do with the learning at a subconscious level of the lesson pertaining to sexual excess. The soul is not aware consciously of the learning experience, but at deeper levels the lesson is taken at its true worth, and is assimilated quite well in almost every instance of epilepsy that has been utilized for this purpose.

For the third example, we may consider the affliction of shingles, in which the skin is the site of an extremely painful eruptive process. Virtually all instances of affliction which involve the skin alone are forms of retribution for actions which involved cruelty to animals. Shingles in particular is a retribution for the merciless whipping or beating of some animal in the care of the person who demonstrated the cruelty. The animal might have been a horse, a cow or a dog, the nature of the animal not being significant.

The other primary area for which the affliction of cancer is used to promote lesson-learning is that of the sexual desires. Many souls have, for many lives, been steeped in sexual excess and over-emphasis to such a degree that they cannot be considered to have learned the basic lesson in this area to the point of 50%. In such cases, the cancerous aetheric agent is allowed to invade the aura adjacent the reproductive organs and to center its activity there. We are discussing here cases of the prostate, of the ovaries, of the testicles and of the womb.

It is intended that the soul, at a quite subconscious level, should derive from the experience of cancer the needed impetus toward greater effort in learning the lesson designated by the affliction, and it has been found that this technique of fostering greater spiritual achievement is largely successful.

Since 1950's African Porcine Pest has been decimating Spanish flocks of pigs. Was such animal plague intentionally devised to lessen human consumption of low-vibrating pork ?. (Question 447).

457a.- What is the purpose, psychobiological engineering and functions of man's subconscious mind? To what recondite end it was devised? How could be the demeanour of human race without the obscure aid of subconscious processes?

458a.- Is it God (Questions 94 and 133) "The thought-field of the universe"? (Charles H. Hapgood). "The circle whose center is everywhere and whose periphery is nowhere"? (Hilarion). Or rather this Jane Robert account? :

The God Concept

[God] is not human in your terms, though he passed through human stages; and here the Buddhist myth comes closest to approximating reality. He is not one individual, but an energy gestalt.

If you remember what I said about the way in which the universe expands, that it has nothing to do with space, then you may perhaps dimly perceive the existence of a psychic pyramid of interrelated, ever-expanding consciousness that creates, simultaneously and instantaneously, universes and individuals that are given—through the gifts of personal perspective—duration, psychic comprehension, intelligence, and eternal validity.

This absolute, ever-expanding, instantaneous psychic gestalt, which you may call God if you prefer, is so secure in its existence that it can constantly break itself down and rebuild itself. Its energy is so unbelievable that it does indeed form all universes; and because its energy is within and behind all universes, systems, and fields, it is indeed aware of each sparrow that falls, for it is each sparrow that falls.

459a.- "Why does not God intervene to put a stop to the troubles of our world, especially the terrible wars between nations and the violent acts of nature that take the lives of millions of people from time to time?" (Collet Saunders).

460a.- For many years careful astronomers such as Giovanni Schiaparelli and Percival Lowell detected on Mars surface through patient day by day observation a conspicuous network of lengthy lines intersecting each other on round dark patches. Nevertheless the contemporary photos of Mars released to general public by NASA shows no vestige of the supposed Martian waterways. What did happen to the vanishing "canals" of the Red Planet?

Bruxelles, le 20 avril 1997

Cher Ignacio,

Il serait mal venu de nier l'existence de phénomènes et de circonstances inexplicables. Cependant, je pense sincèrement que nous avons déjà suffisamment de points d'interrogations pour ne pas en ajouter d'autres, induits par les allégations de ceux qui se croient appelés, contactés, ou pire. Comme une majorité de personnes, j'ai été confrontée à des moments de bizarreries. Moi non plus, je ne suis pas à l'abri d'incertitudes, je vous aligne quelques-unes de mes multiples expériences bizarres, les plus significatives. Mais d'autres gens en ont connues de semblables, je ne fais pas exception à la règle.

- en 1940, j'avais 5 ans et en colonie de vacances avec 80 autres enfants à Ostende sur la côte belge quand le 1 mai, il y eut la déclaration de guerre. Ils nous ont embarqué dans des chaloupes arrimées à un grand bateau et nous ont évacués sur Nantes en France. C'était une mauvaise idée, car le port, les docks, les rades ont été très vite bombardés. Des 80, 4 enfants seulement ont survécu. Dont je suis. Quelle chance! Mais pourquoi moi?

- depuis les années 1954 je suis en général tout à fait maître de ma respiration et des battements de mon coeur, par de simples exercices de yoga. Récemment encore, ayant grimpé une volée d'escaliers chez une amie, très aux petits soins pour sa santé, je vois sur sa table de salon un tensiomètre. Elle me le passe au poignet et l'instrument à visualisation mais aussi sonore, fit entendre des battements de coeur de 80 par minute. J'estimais que c'était un peu trop. En deux secondes, et c'était tout à fait audible et saisissant, je les ai ramenés à 58 par seconde. Tout le monde est capable de se contrôler de cette manière. Comment se fait-il? D'autre part, si je dois obtenir quelque chose d'un autre personne, je sais pertinemment que c'est ma propre disposition intérieure qui sera décisive, même si cela semble très difficile à obtenir. Si je suis persuadée que je vais réussir, cela réussit.

- en mars 1955 à Alost (Belgique, Flandres) j'étais titulaire de classe à l'école primaire. Il y avait environ 50 petites filles de 8 à 9 ans. Un après-midi, sans prononcer une parole, rien que par mon regard, j'ai hypnotisé une petite élève: MAIS SANS LE VOULOIR. Je ne sais pas comment cela s'est produit et prise de panique, j'ai ordonné mentalement à la fillette de sortir de la classe où je l'ai rejointe. Pour la remettre dans son état normal je lui ai donné une giflette... la seule que j'ai jamais donnée à un élève, mais franchement je ne savais plus ce qui se passait et comment cela s'est produit. Je sais que dans mes jeunes années et au moins jusqu'à 40 ans, je gênais beaucoup les gens par mon regard. J'ai appris à le discipliner et à moins fixer les yeux de mes interlocuteurs.

- en juillet 1956 à la campagne près de Gand (Belgique, Flandres), tout à coup le ciel se charge d'orage. J'étais seule dans un champ. Tout à coup j'ai su que je devais m'aplatir par terre. Une seconde plus tard la foudre frappait et fit un petit cratère dans le champs de pommes de terre, juste à côté de moi. Qui ou quoi m'a averti, juste à temps, du danger?

- en 1960, j'étais à Léopoldville (Kinshasa) du Congo alors belge, lors des émeutes. A certain moment je suis descendue de mon appartement avec mon fils d'un an dans les bras: sur le parking devant l'immeuble les Noirs violaient les femmes blanches. Un Noir s'est adressé à moi et m'a dit: remontez-vite madame, sinon ils vont s'en prendre à vous. Ils m'ont laissé tranquille, mais de cela j'en avais déjà la conviction, pourquoi?

- toujours en 1960, en juillet. Les frontières étaient fermées, les Congolais ne voulaient pas laisser partir les belges et bloquaient 5 avions sur le tarmac de Ndjili. Toute la nuit j'ai palabré avec le cousin de Patrice Lumumba, Jacques Lumbala. J'ai obtenu, en échange de ma promesse de rester au Congo, le départ des 5 avions à 5 heures du matin. Lumbala m'a promené en jeep militaire dans toutes les cités indigènes où je devais expliquer aux gens que je restais et pourquoi. J'étais comme une sorte d'héroïne sans l'avoir cherché. Pourquoi ai-je osé faire cela?

- en 1961, à Ngiri-Ngiri au Congo (indépendant mais pas encore du nom de Zaïre) j'étais en poste à l'école normale. Mes étudiants Noirs avaient mon âge, parfois ils étaient plus âgés. Un jour j'ai relevé un défi avec le fils d'un "mungungu" (sorcier). Je lui ai dit qu'où qu'il soit, quoi qu'il fasse, le même soir à 22 heures, j'allais voir et entendre ce qu'il faisait. Pour y parvenir j'ai dû faire un effort de concentration durant plusieurs heures. Mais j'ai gagné le pari. A mon avis, ce Noir m'a transmis par télépathie, ce n'est pas moi qui suis clairvoyante.

- 1965: la combinaison d'une septicémie générale, d'une double pleurésie purulente et du tétanos m'a mise dans le coma et j'y suis restée du 22 janvier au 28 février. Ce coma a été précédé d'une mort clinique au moins (dont je me souviens, les médecins m'en ont attribué trois, mais je ne sais rien des 2 dernières). J'ai donc vécu ce que les gens appellent maintenant une N.D.E. Pour moi, comme je ne suis pas croyante et assez rationnelle dans ma façon de penser, il y eut le tunnel de lumière, mais rien d'autre. Cette lumière me faisait souffrir physiquement dans tout le corps. Arrivée au bout, c'était un éblouissement de lumière partout en moi et sur moi et une très grande paix, pratiquement un bonheur. Actuellement, plus de 30 ans après, lorsque je suis très surprise par un bruit par exemple, cette lumière explose toujours dans ma tête pendant un bref moment. Mais, il m'arrive encore souvent de la provoquer moi-même au moment de m'endormir: dans la mouvance de cette luminosité tout mon être se calme.

Je n'explique pas cela d'une manière mystique. Est-il ridicule de penser que, le coeur s'étant arrêté, stoppant la circulation du sang, le cerveau n'est plus irrigué et entraîne la mort des cellules, et les neurones, dans un désordre de plus en plus grand, produisent tout ce qu'ils ont comme électricité?

Vous savez le comble? Le 28 février je sors du coma et le 1 mars je m'enfuis en taxi de la clinique semant la panique parmi les docteurs!

- entre 1975 et 1985 mais je ne sais plus exactement à quelle date, j'habitais une très belle région de collines boisées à Gammerages (entre Grammont-Flandres, Enghien et Lessines

-Hainaut) il y eut trois événements non expliqués. Ces événements tendraient à faire croire que certains lieux sont plus "hantés" que d'autres.

1. A midi, par temps de brouillard, j'arrive en voiture à un carrefour en "T" et je vois à 50 m devant moi, deux dames habillées de noir, roulant à bicyclette, côte à côte. Je suppose qu'elles revenaient d'un service d'enterrement. Comme j'allais arriver en même temps qu'elles pour tourner à angle droit, je prends toutes mes précautions pour ne pas les renverser. Figurez-vous que, bien qu'il n'y avait aucune maison, aucune entrée de champs - ils étaient bordés de fossés de 2 m de profondeur - ces deux dames à vélo n'étaient plus nulle part, volatilisées. Je me suis arrêtée et j'ai refait le chemin inverse à pied. Elles n'étaient plus là. Où sont-elles parties?

2. Un autre jour de brouillard très épais comme de l'ouate, on ne voyait pas à 10 mètres. J'étais à pied et j'avais l'impression que c'est ainsi qu'on se sent en arrivant sur une autre planète. L'humidité et la fraîcheur de l'air aidant, et la longueur du trajet (je revenais chez moi du centre du village à 4 km et j'avais déjà fait le trajet "aller"), je suis prise d'un besoin subit de faire pipi. Arrivé à un virage, où le champ remontait légèrement mais où il y avait des arbustes pour m'abriter d'un éventuel regard, je monte le talus. Au moment où je m'apprêtais à satisfaire ce besoin, je vois, à moins de 3 m de moi, immobile au sol, un oiseau d'une grandeur imposante. Si cela avait été possible, j'aurais dit qu'il s'agissait d'un corbeau d'un mètre de haut. Dans cette région il n'y a plus de corbeaux, et ces oiseaux là ne font jamais plus de 60 à 70 cm. Il paraissait aussi surpris que je l'étais moi-même. Inutile de vous dire que je n'avais plus aucun besoin d'uriner et que j'ai quitté les lieux à grande vitesse!

3. Un soir d'été, au début des années 1980, j'avais promené comme d'habitude, mon chien dalmatien dans les campagnes. Chaque soir je faisais avec lui le même tour. Nous partions à 20 heures et étions de retour vingt à trente minutes plus tard. Face à notre maison, un chemin creux descendait à 10% et en bas s'étaient étendus champs, étangs et bosquets. A cause du remembrement les chemins tournent à angle droit et notre itinéraire de promenade avait la forme d'un "P". Nous partions de la queue. Ayant fait tout mon tour, je vois dans le ciel à l'est, une lumière inhabituelle, mais à très haute altitude. A cette heure là le ciel est un vrai boulevard pour avions. Cette lumière ne ressemblait pas tout à fait aux lumières d'un avion et j'étais, au moment de l'observation, revenue de la boucle du P pour finir la partie droite qui montait vers la maison, soit à 5 minutes de chez moi. Ayant regardé ce qui me semble avoir duré 30 secondes, figurez-vous qu'avec mon chien je me retrouve à l'intérieur de la boucle du P et en faisant un pas, je m'enfonce dans un fossé rempli d'eau. Avant d'arriver chez moi, mes fils et mon mari venaient à ma rencontre. Inquiets de ne pas me voir revenir, car j'étais partie depuis plus d'une heure, ils avaient décidé de venir voir si je n'avais pas eu d'accident. Encore aujourd'hui je ne m'explique ni mon déplacement à plus de 500m de mon point d'observation, ni la demi-heure manquante. Un truc pareil, cela vous fait vous poser des questions...

- en 1985, en visite chez une tante, accompagnée de l'autre tante (toutes deux soeurs de mon père) il est arrivé quelque chose de bizarre. A certain moment ma tante Yvonne va dans une autre pièce et revient avec une veste en peau de mouton brodée par les Berbères. Au moment où elle montre ce manteau: je savais à l'avance toutes les phrases qu'elle allait dire, comme si cette conversation avait déjà eu lieu. Or, c'est tout à fait impossible. Elle venait de recevoir cette veste de son beau-fils et elle habitait Charleroi où je n'allais qu'un fois par an. Je me suis demandée si j'étais folle...

- ajoutez à cela mon observation du 27 mars 1991 d'un ovni, alors que j'étais dans le train, le monsieur au visage inhabituel dans le métro à deux reprises, une observation d'un autre ovni le 30 juin 1995 à partir de mon appartement à Bruxelles et le 3 juillet 1995, des cris bizarres, à 4 reprises avec des intervalles de 15 à 20 secondes, dans la nuit, face à ma fenêtre ouverte... Au mois de mars de cette année 1997, j'avais la visite de Franck Boitte (très connu des ufologues) et de sa compagne Sibylle (douée, selon elle, de sensibilité paranormale. Avec son pendule Sibylle voulait déterminer chez moi, dans l'appartement, les "bons" endroits et les "mauvais". Dans ma chambre à coucher, face à l'orgue électrique (2 claviers, un jeu de pédales complet) elle est tombée 3 fois en arrière en me disant qu'une "entité" la repoussait. Je n'y crois rien du tout. S'il y avait une entité, ne tomberais-je pas de mon siège chaque fois que je fais de la musique, soit chaque jour? D'un autre côté, il y a parfois des perturbations électromagnétiques dans la maison où j'ai mon appartement. Le propriétaire occupe le rez-de chaussée, et chez lui aussi cela arrive: brusquement nos appareils se mettent en route tout seuls: PC, télévision, répondeur du téléphone, imprimante... Personnellement j'attribue cela au courant électrique qui doit être trop faible, car dans la maison voisine il y a un ascenseur datant du début du siècle, dont le moteur prend probablement plus de courant que la normale. Quand l'ascenseur s'arrête, nous recevons une brusque hausse de tension. Je ne vois pas d'autre explication.

Comme de juste, vu tout ce qui précède, je m'intéresse mais plutôt de manière passive, comme la plupart des personnes, aux phénomènes dits paranormaux. J'ai, par exemple, tenté l'écriture automatique. Savez-vous ce que j'ai obtenu? Un dessin, à l'envers, de plusieurs animaux à leur juste proportion en une seule ligne continue: giraffe, éléphant, chien, serpent, papillon, lion, ... Amusant non? Mon subconscient est peuplé de choses exotiques!

Ne vous en déplaise, mais ci-dessous vous trouverez quelques-unes de mes réactions à votre questionnaire métaphysique. Vous constaterez très vite que je suis moins tête en l'air et moins du genre mystique que l'on pourrait croire. Si je suis très réactionnaire et assez cinglante, me pardonneriez vous à l'avance?

18 → QUESTION N° 18 Mille et mille amitiés, Godelier
voir réponse n° 29: si à l'inverse nous n'étions par exemple que des virus (humanité) sur un globule (blanc ou rouge = Terre) d'une entité vivante infinie? Difficile de savoir, avec nos petites faces de rat!

21

Oui nous vivons actuellement dans un univers en expansion, selon un cycle d'une durée non encore calculé, car les avis divergent encore pour notre propre galaxie. Chaque expansion est suivie inévitablement d'une recondensation, une contraction jusqu'à l'infini pour, dans un autre "big bang" recommencer, éternellement. Un peu comme un coeur pulsant...

24

Une planète peut-elle émigrer pour tourner en orbite autour d'un autre soleil? Pas une planète naturelle! C'est vraiment une élucubration que de penser même à une émigration possible de planète. Elle peut, sous le choc d'un météore, d'une autre planète en désordre, voler en éclats, se désintégrer en météores, mais alors elle n'est plus une planète!

25 et 26 et 182

Les soleils ne sont pas des lieux froids, et il ne s'agit pas du tout d'une anti-science terrienne de prétendre que les soleils sont des astres en fusion nucléaire. Toutes les inventions d'êtres vivant dans les soleils d'amour (mais pas d'eau fraîche!) sont à rejeter si l'on désire garder un tout petit peu de bon sens.

29

En physique théorique il est très possible qu'à côté de notre univers visible (parce que porteur du même genre de magnétisme) il en existe au moins un parallèle, magnétiquement opposé: cette différence fondamentale nous rendrait cet univers invisible, indécélable. Cela serait réciproque pour l'univers parallèle vis à vis du nôtre. Sous l'influence d'un champ magnétique hautement perturbé, il pourrait alors y avoir interférences. Quant à des univers moins denses, plus éthériques, cela se conçoit également en théorie: nous ne sommes pas encore parvenus à déceler jusqu'à l'infini la composition de nos atomes, de nos électrons. Si au niveau de l'infiniment, infiniment quasi indécélable, ces mini-mini-mini atomes de sous électrons sont assemblés en structures, nous ne pourrions ni les voir, ni les sentir, ni nous rendre compte de leur existence.

33

Le livre de Ramatis ne m'intéresse pas plus que les élucubrations et sottises d'un tas d'autres. Ramatis ne sait pas de quoi il parle mais il a l'imagination fertile. Son livre lui a sûrement rapporté assez d'argent, je suppose que c'était l'un de ses buts réels.

La théorie de la terre creuse

Quel non-sens! Puisés dans les archétypes et légendes du monde entier, elle était remise au goût du jour par Ostara et même en Allemagne, sous Hitler, par Horbiger, que le Fuhrer appelait le nouveau Copernic! Horbiger est né en 1860 dans le Tyrol autrichien. De dessinateur chez un constructeur de machines à vapeur, il devient inventeur, autodidacte astronome et physicien à ses heures. Dès 1922 Horbiger fonde sa première revue "La Clé des événements mondiaux." En 1933 les groupes de Horbiger sont connus, et quoique ses théories fichent par terre tout ce que la science a patiemment pu rassembler en 5 siècles il jouit auprès d'Hitler de la plus haute estime. Pire: les savants de l'époque devaient se rallier aux théories mythologiques d'Horbiger!

46

les lumières sur la Lune

Tout a fait plausibles depuis que l'on sait qu'il y a des volcans lunaires. Encore que des astronomes y aient vu d'autres choses parfois que des éruptions. Les analyses du sol ont démontré également qu'il y a de l'eau, mais pas à l'état d'eau libre comme nous la connaissons. Y a-t-il autre chose? Peut-être bien, sans que nous en soyons informés, une base américaine dans le sens d'ensemble d'appareillages pour à l'instar des satellites militaires, surveiller la terre... Autre chose? J'en doute.

58

les mutilations de bétail DEPUIS 1972

Loin d'en accuser encore et toujours d'hypothétiques E.T. il est raisonnable de penser que des terriens pour des raisons inavouables (satanisme, autres sectes) se servent de moyens modernes pour produire ces mutilations. Il est tout à fait plausible et c'était faisable dès 1972, de se balader par la route ou par les airs avec un appareillage mobile équipé de lasers: chirurgie d'avant garde et avant la lettre. Les mutilations semblent diminuer actuellement. Aucune prétention de ma part d'alléguer que ma proposition soit la bonne: c'est une éventualité à considérer.

60

L'expérience post-mortem et le statut spirituel de toutes les personnes citées, (y compris de toutes les autres non citées!) : ils sont à l'état de cadavre et retournent à la poussière dont ils sont tirés (sauf en milieu favorable, conservation plus durable par saponification). Leur statut spirituel: comme le sucre se dilue dans l'eau, leurs esprits se sont dilués dans l'immensité. Leur statut cérébral: toutes les cellules étant détraquées, elles n'ont plus d'impulsions chimiques à transmettre aux neurones, et il n'y a plus d'étincelles électriques: FINI. Je ne crois pas à la réincarnation, sous ce que le concept signifie pour beaucoup. La poussière des êtres morts (végétaux, animaux, humains, rocheux) sont de toute manière l'un jour ou l'autre réabsorbés par d'autres vivants.

Les trous noirs

Théorie physique fort à la mode dans les années 70; même Peter Hawkins y souscrivait. Vingt ans plus tard les trous noirs sont sensés n'avoir jamais existé, la théorie physique les remplace par d'autres hypothèses....

81 et 250

Est-ce que réellement l'humanité évolue par la souffrance? La souffrance est subjective. Est-ce que les plantes évoluent quand on y jette des défoliants, des pesticides, quand on les arrache, quand on les broie, quand on les mange? Qui nous dit qu'elles n'ont pas une âme et qu'elles ne souffrent pas sous toutes ses souffrances? A mon avis, l'humanité n'apprend rien de rien de la souffrance, ni la tolérance, ni la bonté, ni la solidarité, elle continue à tuer, à faire du tort pour le profit ou pour la puissance.

97

Je ne crois pas que Kennedy fut assassiné le 22 novembre 1963 parce qu'il allait nous révéler des choses concernant les ovni, ne devenons pas plus paranoïaques que ne le sont certains américains dans le milieu ufologique. Alors Lincoln (1865), Garfield (1881), Mac Kinley (1901) et Warren Hardin (1923 mais par son épouse) avaient-ils également des nouvelles ufologiques à nous communiquer? Personne n'a jamais exploré pour Kennedy le filon du fils unique d'Onassis assassiné par ordre... Bizarre quand même que Jacqueline Bouvier épousera Onassis après la mort de Kennedy. Mais le clan Kennedy est loin d'être irréprochable, et TOUT dans cette famille plutôt mafieuse appelle à la vengeance....

La peste noire de 1348 à 1350 tuant des millions de gens, est une calamité naturelle à cause des conditions déplorables de l'hygiène et la pullulation des rats. Comme tout le monde vous devez savoir que cette hécatombe a été imputée aux Juifs. Ceux qui ont survécu à cette peste ont été brûlés vifs, noyés, abattus....

Gurdjieff

Georges Ivanovitch Gurdjieff est né le 13-1-1872 à Alexandropol. Son père est d'origine grecque (Gurdjidès de leur nom d'origine) il est musicien et conteur de légendes, en proie à de terribles colères et porté sur l'alcool. La famille est au départ riche et propriétaire terrienne. En 1978 une épidémie décime le bétail, c'est la ruine. Le père Gurdjieff se fait menuisier et s'établit à Kars. Le jeune Georges y est remarqué par les prêtres russes qui rêvent d'en faire un prêtre médecin. Georges donne à tout son savoir un tournant pratique et commercial. En 1888 certains faits "miraculeux" le guident.

EN FAIT: à partir de ce moment, tout ce qui est paranormal ou miraculeux, nous ne le savons que par Gurdjieff lui-même, il n'y eut JAMAIS D'AUTRE TEMOIN!

en 1992 Gurdjieff est, à vingt ans, chauffeur de locomotive à Tiflis, puis chef de chantier. En un an de travail il amasse suffisamment d'argent pour vivre librement quelque temps (l'histoire ne dit pas comment il amasse cet argent...)

Il fait des fouilles archéologiques à Ani (près d'Alexandropol), il s'en va pour Alexandrie, pour Le Caire et arrive en 1893 à Jérusalem.

Tout ce qui est de cette période, soi-disant initiatique, ce n'est que de Gurdjieff lui-même que nous l'apprenons.

En 1897 il est de retour à Alexandropol où le groupe des Chercheurs de la Vérité l'invitent à participer à une expédition d'études et de recherches. Il va ainsi, c'est lui qui le prétend, dans le désert de Gobi pour trouver le seuil de l'Agartha (qu'il ne trouve pas), à Bakou il étudie la magie ancienne (sic) et à Achkabad il ouvre un atelier américain ambulant où il répare tout ce qu'on lui amène.

Le 2 janvier 1900 il retourne vers l'Inde avec les Chercheurs de la Vérité, il prétend avoir découvert un monastère des Esséniens et reçoit l'initiation du Maître de Justice. (veuillez consulter mes notes consacrées à QUMRAN, car tout ceci est archi-faux).

Il continue à voyager jusqu'en 1913 et prétend même avoir été le précepteur d'un Dalai-Lama au Tibet. (sic!) Mais à partir de 1910 il ouvre divers magasins, il tient des restaurants, des cinémas... Il préférerait le commerce de tapis et des antiquités qui étaient plus profitables et lui laissaient assez de loisirs. Il revient à Moscou en 1913 et prétend avoir amassé une somme d'un million et demi de roubles sans compter deux collections d'une valeur inestimable.

De 1914 à 1917 il donne à Moscou et à St Petersburg une série de conférences et pour créer son propre Institut de sciences parapsychologiques, il intrigue auprès de Nicolas II. En 1915 il rencontre Ouspensky, mathématicien qui devint son assistant pour un an ou deux. En 1920 l'Institut se désagrège La guerre des cosaques l'oblige à partir via Sotchi à Tiflis où il donne des cours et des représentations de danse: la Lutte des Mages. Dès 1921 il part via Constantinople à Berlin avec les époux Hartmann et y rencontre ceux du groupe Thulé (parmi lesquels Hitler). Après plusieurs voyages à Londres il débarque à Paris le 13.7.1922. A partir d'ici il s'adonne avec furie à toutes les orgies humaines possibles et imaginables. Peu après il acquiert le prieuré d'Avon (aidé par ses élèves de Londres et de Paris) et en 1923 il ordonne le prieuré selon les plans de son Institut de St Pétersbourg. Il devient une sorte d'école de régénération par l'exercice et la méditation. Le 13 décembre 1923 il donne au Théâtre des Champs Elysées une représentation unique de ses Mouvements et aussitôt après part en tournée à travers les Etats-Unis. Il fait un tabac tant à Chicago qu'à New York où il triomphe en avril 1924 au Carnegie Hall. Il ouvre une filiale de l'Institut à New York. En juin 1924 il rentre à Paris. Le 5 juillet il percute un arbre en roulant trop vite et on diagnostique des déchirures crâniennes sans fractures. Sa convalescence se prolonge jusqu'en 1925, pendant ce temps il écrit: Récits de Belzébuth à son petit-fils.

En 1929 il s fâche avec les Hartmann et en 1933 il vend le prieuré d'Avon. Il repart en Amérique créant de-ci de là de nouveaux Instituts

De 1939 à 1945 il se retire dans un appartement à Paris dans la rue Colonels-Renard. Il y reçoit des gens de plus en plus âgés, de plus en plus pauvres.

En 1949 il se rend à nouveau aux Etats Unis et s'occupe de l'édition de son premier et du second livre: Belzébuth et Rencontre avec des hommes remarquables. Ensuite il traverse la France et la Suisse, va à Vichy. Il meurt à Paris le 29 octobre 1949.

Note: Je ne trouve aucune trace d'un livre appelé "The Fourth Way"....

Pourquoi les enfants meurent-ils si souvent dans des incendies, parfois en groupe?

Cette question est insidieuse. On meurt beaucoup dans les incendies quel que soit l'âge, et souvent en groupe. Les enfants meurent bien plus encore de malnutrition et d'épidémies...

122

Quand on connaît le nombre de bus scolaires qui circulent partout, le nombre d'accidents relevés est minime. Ici aussi la question me semble insidieuse... Les jeunes, dans nos campagnes, meurent beaucoup en voiture: ils boivent, roulent trop vite, et ont trop jeunes des autos à leur disposition. Dans d'autres pays les jeunes meurent beaucoup des guerres...

143

L'odeur perçue lors d'observations d'Ovni s'apparente bien plus à celle de l'ozone qu'à celle d' oeufs pourris ou de souffre, ce qui sous-tendrait une supposition qu'il s'agissait de foudre en boule....

152

notre libre arbitre.

Dans des circonstances données, qui nous sont imposées par la vie et le hasard, que nous n'avons donc pas choisies, il arrive que nous ayons encore à faire un choix, forcément limité. Mais très souvent nous n'avons même pas ce choix. "free will"??? Je n'y crois pas trop. Par contre si nous ne sommes pas libres de vouloir, nous pouvons vouloir ardemment des choses, et y croire: cela aide beaucoup à les obtenir!

159

Il y a un début d'explication scientifique à ces petites boules de feu. Leur polarité opposée à celle de ce qui est rattaché à la terre nous fait croire qu'elles agissent de manière intelligente. En laboratoire le phénomène a été reproduit. Ce sont de mini-foudres en boule.

164

En tout cas J.P. Petit y croit, puisqu'il base ses théories là-dessus.

166

Cela n'est pas valable uniquement pour l'humanité, mais pour chaque vie animale ou végétale qui vit sur la Terre. C'est une des lois de la nature ici: manger ou être mangé. Comme je ne suis pas croyante, je ne me sens nullement concernée par un quelconque péché originel que je n'ai pas commis, ni par les conséquences d'un "monstrous planetary karmic debt". Au lieu de nous lamenter sur notre sort, ne pourrions pas élever une hymne à la joie de vivre?

172

Pour répondre à cette question il faudrait d'abord que je sois convaincue du passage d'extraterrestres sur notre planète, ce qui n'est pas le cas. Admettons qu'ils existent et qu'ils soient là, pourquoi nous joueraient-ils la comédie? Jouons-nous la comédie quand nous regardons paître un troupeau de moutons? Cela n'a aucun sens. C'est l'interprétation subjonctive de ce qui n'est pas compris qui ferait dire qu'il nous joue les guignols.

Peut-être de nous conduire au-delà, jusqu'au nirvana? (nir vahana : non existence = pour les bouddhistes la suprême sagesse)

En 1972 il y avait en Amérique (Etats Unis) déjà plus d'un million de personnes qui fumaient la marihuana et plus de 300.000 qui se droguaient d'une autre manière. Quand j'ai lu le livre de John Mack, il n'a même pas réussi à trouver de véritables témoins d'enlèvements qui n'avaient jamais fumé du shit! Je ne crois absolument pas aux enlèvements. Surtout pas à ceux obtenus sous hypnose. On sait maintenant que l'hypnose peut induire des fantasmes qui restent coller à la mémoire vive après l'éveil et qui sont mémorisés comme étant vécus. Heureusement cette mode n'a pas encore complètement envahie l'Europe. D'après le livre: "Santé et Médecine - l'Etat des connaissances et des recherches" oeuvre collective - La Découverte - Paris 1988: 2% de la population globale souffre de schizophrénie, 3% sont paranoïaques, 0,5% souffrent d'épilepsie. Mais peut-être avez vous le temps de lire mon condensé ironique sur l'état de santé de l'humanité?

Pyramides en bois qui se serait pétrifié? Logiquement ce n'est pas possible. Encore une de ces hypothèses gratuites. L'on ne comprenait pas non plus comment les indigènes de l'île de Paques avaient soulevé les colosses en les dressant tous la face tournée du même côté. Il a fallu que Thor Heyerdal le voit de ses yeux, et encore, il n'a pas pu convaincre ceux qui n'avaient aucune envie d'attribuer cette tâche aux humains. Contre question: comment font-elles, les termites si petites pour élever les termitières qui dépassent de 4 mètres le niveau du sol et qui sont longues de parfois 20 mètres? Cet exploit mérite bien une pyramide! Comment font-elles les abeilles pour faire des creux hexagonaux parfaits dans la cire? Comment font-elles les hirondelles et les autres oiseaux migrateurs pour retrouver leur chemin de nos contrées dès le printemps? Elles n'ont pourtant qu'une toute petite, toute petite tête...

Encore un auteur qui ne m'inspire que de la méfiance. Il est certain que toutes sortes d'essais sont effectués en dehors des voies connues, par les services de recherches scientifiques militaires. Nous en connaissons quelques-uns, ils sont vraiment inhumains et monstrueux. Par contre, il n'ont pas eu besoin de soucoupes ni d'entités extraterrestres pour faire leurs essais. Dans les camps d'extermination des juifs, tziganes, slaves en Allemagne, ils n'avaient pas non plus besoin des extra-terrestres pour arriver à leur but.

Loi des probabilités. Ce sont des semblants de coïncidences.

Le Protocole des Sages de Sion

Une des sources d'inspiration de ce texte a été un pamphlet écrit par un romancier populaire français Maurice Joly "Les Dialogues aux enfers entre Machiavel et Montesquieu, ou la Politique au XIXe siècle." édité pour la première fois à Bruxelles en 1864. Ce pamphlet fut adapté pour assouvir l'antisémitisme toujours latent, édité en 1903 à Moscou, il le fut en ~~1923~~¹⁹²³ à Berlin par la Wilhelmstrasse même.

Du côté opposé, en mer de Chine, existe un endroit exactement pareil: brusques levées de trombes, perturbations magnétiques, aussitôt calmées, mais ayant au fil des ans, causés d'innombrables pertes en avions et en bateaux.

Y croyez-vous à ces kidnappings par des extra-terrestres? La plupart des gens disparus sont morts, suicidés ou assassinés. Si NOTRE société est déjà à même de cloner à partir de deux cellules, les AUTRES sociétés soi-disant bien plus avancées n'ont vraiment pas besoin de kidnapper qui que ce soit: une cellule suffit!

248

Réponse identique que pour le n° 60.

249

Certainement pas: il est bien connu que ce sont les humains qui évoluent vers les niveaux les plus bas et qui deviennent, même de leur vivant, des chiens, des cochons, des perroquets ou ... des végétaux.

276

Chaque pétunia produit des centaines et des centaines de petites graines, dans le meilleur des cas une dizaine donnera une nouvelle plante si l'hiver n'a pas été trop rude. Chaque tournesol en produit plusieurs dizaines, les tarentules pondent 80 oeufs, les poissons des centaines.... Comment s'organise le choix? Le spermatozoïde à la fois le plus fort, le plus durand, le plus fou, dans la meilleure trajectoire parvient à l'ovule. Des rares fois ils sont deux à parvenir à la fin de cette course d'estafettes et alors naissent des jumeaux. Il n'y a pas de prédestination: il y a à ce niveau - encore pour la majorité des humains - une sélection naturelle. A mon humble avis rien à voir avec des vies antérieures!

réponse identique à celle du n° 25 - 26 - 182

Les textes révélés ne sont pas du tout écrits dans un style clair et intelligible. Le livre des morts Egyptiens par exemple, les écrits de l'Inde, le Popol Vuh: c'est tarabiscoté que ce n'est pas possible! Même la bible est pleine de contradictions et de termes qui ne nous sont plus compréhensibles, car depuis 2500 ans (tous ces textes datent d'environ du 4e siècle avant JC) tout a évolué et a changé.

408

Ce n'est pas le même dieu qui révèle les mêmes choses aux humains. C'est le même genre d'esprit humain qui croit avoir le même genre de révélations.

411

Domage s'il faut croire à cela. Et les personnes qui sont incapables de visualiser les choses dans leur mental? Cela existe.

416

Pourquoi les prophéties font-elles faillite? Mais justement parce que les prophéties sont des émanations de personnes qui croient avoir des dons de clairvoyance ou des flashes. Cela ne correspond à aucune réalité. Tout au plus s'en réalise-t-il une de temps à autre, dans le cadre des lois de la probabilité.

420

Première nouvelle: la galaxie est-elle une entité sacrificielle? Qui m'a pondu une ineptie pareille? Dans l'esprit d'un poète, dans la poétique visionnaire oui, mais personne d'autre que le poète qui s'exprime comprend ce qu'il dit.

426

Les nappes de gaz et de pétrole sont strictement terriennes. Si nous avions le temps nous pourrions les reproduire: faire cramer des forêts et les engloutir dans un glissement de terrain sous très haute pression pendant quelques dizaines de milliers d'années.

431

L'or (comme le diamant) n'ont de valeur que par la rareté de ces éléments sur notre terre dont le ventre contient énormément de fer et une quantité infime d'or.

447 - 456

Non, ce ne sont pas les gardiens planétaires qui contaminent les poulets pour nous dissuader de manger leur viande. Les poulets ... avez-vous déjà visité une batterie de poulets pour la ponte? Ils sont artificiellement (par des hormones ajoutées) menés à maturité. Là, nourriture et jour/nuit instauré artificiellement jusqu'à 3 fois en 24 heures, ils doivent pondre. Au bout de 6 semaines ils sont vidés, usés, comme seule une toute vieille poule pourrait l'être. C'est le cadavre de cela qu'on nous offre au supermarché. On serait contaminé et empoisonné pour moins. Dans le même ordre d'idées la maladie de la vache folle, la peste porcine: trop grandes exploitations, animaux poussés dans leur croissance pour rapporter toujours plus d'argent...

451

Ces maladies ne sont pas induites par des extraterrestres. Dans la nature, de tous temps, se produisent des mutations, faisant d'un virus jusqu'ici innocent, tout à coup un virus très dangereux. Cette question est trop longue à débattre, il faudrait écrire tout un livre. Ce qui est certain: rien à voir avec E.T. !

453

Franco, Tito, Neves ont souffert longtemps et ont eu de longues agonies. Cela n'a absolument rien à voir avec les bienfaits ou les méfaits qu'ils auraient pu commettre. A moins de mourir brusquement d'une crise cardiaque ou d'une embolie, les longues agonies sont réservées aux riches. Juste retour des choses. Les pauvres n'ont pas assez d'argent à offrir aux médecins pour prolonger inutilement des souffrances.

459

Si dieu existe, est-il la cause des guerres et des actes de violence? S'il ne l'est pas, il n'a aucune raison d'arrêter ce que les humains ont commencé. S'il l'est, c'est qu'il est sadique.
